Nye Refuses To Drop Probe of Illinois Campaign

SENATOR ASSAILS RUTH MCCORMICK AND HER AGENTS

In Formal Statement,
Committee Chairman
Says Body Will Not Be Intimidated.

'WILL TO THREATEN' SEEN BY CHAIRMAN

Admits Results of Affair
May Be Disastrous to Owp Career, But Will Not Sidestep.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Bitterly assailing methods he said were employed by agents engaged by Mrs. Ruth McCormick to investigate activities of the senate campaign funds committee, Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the committee in a formal statement issued tonight said the body would not be diverted from its course by "any smoke screen laid down through a will to threaten, intimidate and influence."

In the statement, issued after formal adjournment of the committee's hearing, Senator Nye expressed "amazement" over Mrs. McCormick's admission that she had employed detectives to investigate activities of the committee. He continued:

"What is Nye going to do about it? Is a question contained in the confession by the candidate."

"In the face of vast possibilities in such a program as had apparently been planned by these detectives, and in fear of the great and lasting injury which might be the reward for doing anything other, I presume it was expected that the committee would be prevailed upon by its chairman to retreat from its work in Illinois."

"But, while admitting that there might be truth in the individual's alleged prophecy that when this private investigation of myself was finished and its results were made known 'Nye would be seen in the streets of Chicago, or gridding a hand organ for a dancing monkey.' My answer to the question of the senate candidate as to what I shall do is only this:

"That no matter how unpleasant and distasteful is the responsibility in Illinois, I shall, so far as I am able to do so, continue with continuing investigation in Illinois along those same lines thus far followed by the committee, lines which can be accepted as a credit to the legislative body which we serve and in such a manner as will be ultimately approved by the most severe of honest and unprejudiced critics of the senate, and to follow this course with continuing instructions to our very small staff of assistants to us none but clean and honorable methods in ascertaining facts which have relation to the conduct and expenditures of any campaign for the United States senate."

"The committee will not be diverted from its clearly defined duty by any smoke screen laid down through a will to threaten, intimidate and influence."

Plot To Murder II Duce Revealed

TRIESTE, Italy, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The authorities announced today that one of eighteen Yugoslavian prisoners on trial here for terrorism had given the court a written confession to a plot to attempt the life of Premier Mussolini.

The confession stated that the assassination attempt was to take place within a few days. The name of the confessing defendant was held secret and no further details were given.

It duce has been the object of several murderous attacks. His escape from death on some of these occasions has been remarkable.

Louisiana Official Whips Long Enthusiast

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 3.—(UN)—Louisiana Governor Paul Cyr, a powerfully built man in his late 30s, severely thrashed a supporter of Governor Huey P. Long in a downtown hotel today as the Long-Randall senatorial race entered the last bitter week before the September 9 primary.

Cyr, implacable enemy of the governor, struck R. Thieriot, New Orleans insurance salesman, several times after warning Thieriot to "quit his impudence and backing."

Thieriot, the younger man, was reported as having taunted Cyr as a "big bully," as Cyr dined with friends, and dared him to place a bet on the coming election.

BOYKIN CLAIMS RIGHT TO PROBE

Solicitor General Refuses
To Step Down for Another
To Conduct Quiz.

Possibility of appointment of a special solicitor to conduct the Fulton county grand jury's investigation of county affairs was ended Wednesday when Solicitor General John A. Boykin issued a statement declining to permit anyone to supplant him and conduct any investigation of any character.

Mr. Boykin pointed out that he is a state officer and not a county officer, and that the July-August term grand jury's fear that he might be embarrassed in conducting the county investigation was unfounded. Further, Mr. Boykin declared, appointment of a solicitor pro tem, to conduct the investigation while he is in good health and able would be illegal and the probe would have to be gone over again.

Expressing appreciation of the grand jury's kind references to him and gratitude for that body's loyal support, Mr. Boykin said he felt keenly their friendly solicitation that he might be embarrassed by conducting a thorough and sifting investigation of county matters, but that "it will not embarrass me in the slightest degree to discharge my duty wherever it lies."

Mr. Boykin pointed out that the grand jury's recommendation was perhaps due to the fact that the grand jury feared that my relationship to the county might be such that it would embarrass me, inasmuch as appropriations are made from time to time for necessary and legitimate expenses for the prosecution of crime and for the clerical help supplied the office of solicitor-general."

"November, last, upon the floor of city council, open charges of graft were made. These charges precipitated a demand for a grand jury investigation. I was called upon through the public press to make this investigation. At the time this demand was made, I have striven to do my duty fairly and impartially, and have worked unceasingly for nine months, and this investigation is yet incomplete and will require a vast amount of work before completed."

"Upon my return from the vacation which the July-August grand jury urged me to take, knowing my condition, because of my official position in this country, I am not a county employee nor a county officer, but a state official. My salary is fixed by an act of the legislature and so are the salaries of my assistants. That such an investigation would embarrass me seems to be the crux of the grand jury's recommendation."

A County Employee.
"This grand jury, was made on account of the fact that such an investigation into county affairs might embarrass me, because of my official position in this country. I am not a county employee nor a county officer, but a state official. My salary is fixed by an act of the legislature and so are the salaries of my assistants. That such an investigation would embarrass me seems to be the crux of the grand jury's recommendation."

Twelve Persons Hurt As Bridge Collapses

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Twelve workmen were injured, four seriously, when the concrete trestle of the new state highway bridge over the Hudson river near Danville collapsed late today.

The names of seven of the injured were available at Brown's hospital at Lorston, where they were taken.

The are: Bill Royston, Danielville; Hervis Berryman, Danielville; E. W. Townsend, Franklin Springs; F. W. Strubling, Danielville; John Beard, Danielville; Harvey Deard, Ellijay; and Marvin Elliott, Royston.

Townsend, Berryman, Strubling and Beard were injured seriously.

The five whose names were not available immediately were reported not seriously hurt.

The workmen began pouring concrete for the floor after all piers were up and the entire bridge fell through.

The workers were plunged into the river. One was saved free of debris that imprisoned him.

Russell To Confer With Mayson Today on Court Action To Prevent Publication of Incorrect Total

Displeased at the United States census bureau's most recent publication of population statistics for the borough of Atlanta and the city of Atlanta, Horace Russell, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, declared Wednesday night that he would confer with City Attorney James L. Mayson today in an effort to speed up mandamus proceedings and secure a temporary injunction to prevent any further releases of Atlanta's census unless the "Greater Atlanta" population is reported.

The release of the bureau, however, clearly showed, according to those who have followed the fight for what they term a correct enumeration of the Atlanta population, the uncertainty of the department concerning Atlanta's status.

Carried in the Georgia column as the only Georgia borough with a population in excess of 100,000, the borough of Atlanta was listed at 270,367, a gain of 67,731 for the past decade and a percentage gain of 34.8. In lower case was a footnote "B" which referred the reader to the following: "Population for the area known as the municipality of Atlanta under Georgia legislature of 1929 totals 340,692."

This was received as an indication that the bureau itself might reverse a former ruling that it would not list Atlanta's population with that of the boroughs and other districts beneath it.

"The bureau continues to violate the agreement it made with a delegation of Atlanta at the national capital several weeks ago," Mr. Russell said. "I shall confer with Mr. Mayson today urging immediate action to prevent further injurious releases from the department. If the department does not live up to the agreement made by Dr. William M. Stewart, director of the census, it should not list Atlanta at all or any of the other cities of the nation."

"Unless we take immediate action, the department will proceed at once with the publication of the final figures and fail to list Atlanta as it should be listed and as Dr. Stewart agreed to list it. No matter how many mandamus writs we obtain, it will be too late if the department completes and publishes its official census report prior to final adjudication of the suit which it is to be brought within the next few days. The first paper filed should carry with it an injunction clause to prevent publication of the report until this matter is settled."

Titus Leads Encouragement.
Mr. Mayson and others interested in the census fight Wednesday were encouraged over the impending court battle when the borough attorney received from Louis Titus, law partner of C. Bascom Sleep, former chairman of the republican national committee, telegraphic advice to the effect that Atlanta had a good claim. Mr. Titus asked Mr. Mayson for instructions to proceed at once.

Councilman George B. Lyle, chairman of a special committee of borough council charged with the responsibility of checking borough employees as to their residence with a view of forcing those who live outside to move within the borough limits, declared

French and German Fliers Meet at New York Dinner

LINDY ALSO JOINS IN INTERNATIONAL INCIDENT

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—A quiet little "family party" was turned by flying men of three nations tonight into what Mayor James J. Walker announced was the greatest step toward peace of which he had ever heard.

Turning their backs squarely upon the old animosities of days when war ruled the world and made them enemies, French and German fliers who recently accomplished the westward crossing of the Atlantic air lanes shook hands and called each other friend. And then they all shook hands with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who sprang to fame by flying the ocean from west to east.

The occasion was a dinner tendered Wolfgang von Gronau and his crew of three by the German-American conference. It was an informal affair if a Grand Central hotel, very German, very quiet, with no preparations made for broadcasting and very few plans indeed for any sort of publicity.

At the last moment an invitation was sent to the French fliers, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, and word came back that they had accepted, but no one seemed to believe fully that they would arrive, for it was known they were giving a dinner themselves for Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh.

And the dinner ran its course and the guests had not arrived. The

COSTE PLANS HOP TO DALLAS TODAY FOR $25,000 PRIZE

New York Acclaims Conquerors of Westward Air Trail Over Atlantic.

BY PAUL W. WHITE.
United News Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(UN)—With a nonstop flight from Paris behind them and a dash to Dallas ahead of them on the morrow, the two men of the Question Mark received today the tumultuous praise that is their due.

Captain Dieudonne Coste and his navigator, Maurice Bellonte, found a city and aude a nation thrilling to the skillful achievement that, as Mayor Walker aptly put it, "turned the Atlantic ocean from a one-way thoroughfare into a two-way street."

New York said it with cheers, with the clamor of sirens, with the brassy cadences of bands, with the rustle of silken banners in which the Tri-color and Stars and Stripes intermingled and with its own noiseless bombardment of ticker tape streaming endlessly from Broadway's towers.

The airman met the unrestrained enthusiasm with a quality of diffidence that served but to endear them further to the throngs of admirers. As easily as possible the reception resembled that which marked the return of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh after he had pioneered on the trans-oceanic route to Le Bourget which Coste and Bellonte now have flown in reverse direction.

Dallas will have its turn tomorrow evening when the aviators are due to reach there to receive a prize of $25,000 for the first one-stop flight between Paris and the Texas city. Washington will have its turn Monday when they land at the Pentagon.

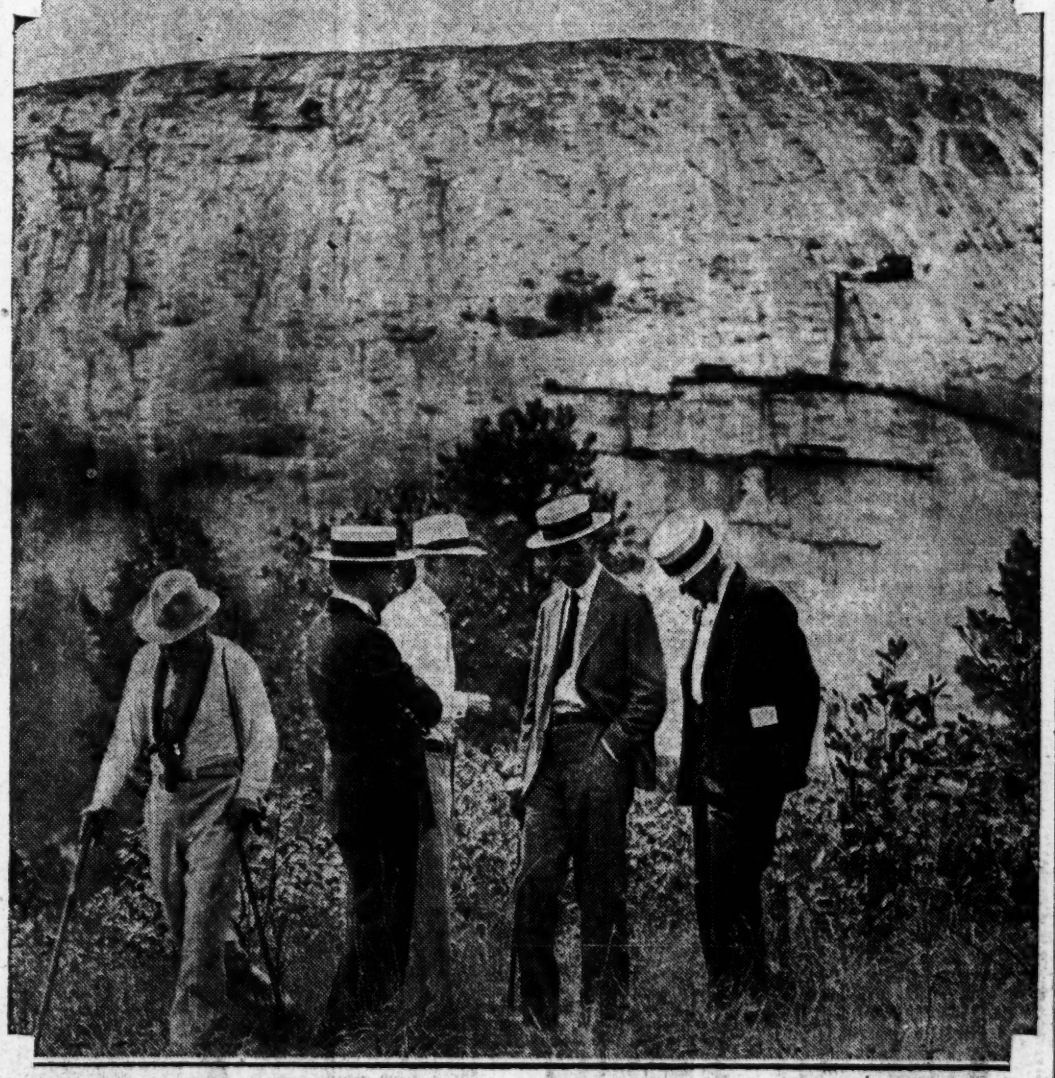

The fliers went to Curtiss airport tonight, inspected their plane and announced that they hoped to take off for Dallas early tomorrow, probably at 6 a. m. or shortly thereafter. Earlier the start had been tentatively scheduled for 9 a. m.

Coste said he expected the flight to take at least 10 hours. The distance is estimated at 1,465 miles. His reason for the delay, he said, will follow the air line, which would take the big plane across New Jersey, over West Virginia close to Huntington, then through the mountains of Kentucky and over Arkansas, near Little Rock, before the Texas border is reached. The prize award, offered by Trans-oceanic telephone, will be $25,000 and 15 minutes.

After a short shower at 9 a. m. and ordering the more or less meager French breakfast of coffee and toast the fliers talked with their wives by trans-oceanic telephone. "Did you sleep well last night?" Coste asked his wife after they had

Dr. M. Ashby Jones To Return To Aid Memorial Conference

Notable figures in "peace" negotiations which have for their aim the creation of a super-memorial to the Confederacy at Stone Mountain. Looking over a part of the granite covered park site which is to be included in Venable Park are, seen left to right, Gutzon Borglum, famous artist; Thomas Quinn Beasley, his secretary; Col. S. H. Venable, Mayor-elect James L. Key and J. Lawrence McCord, one of the principals in the negotiations.

ALL-PAVED ROUTE TO N. Y. PROMISED

Link, Last in Georgia, To Open Vast Mountain
Area to Tourist Traffic.

Contract will be awarded September 12, the date fixed for the next meeting of the state highway commission, for the construction of the last lap of a hard-surfaced road from Atlanta to Asheville, Captain J. W. Barnett, chairman of the commission, said at the state capital Wednesday.

A provision of the contract, Captain Barnett said, will be that the work must be completed within 50 working days, and in order to do this the successful contractor will have to agree to put two construction forces on the job.

Completion of this lap, a 15-mile stretch between Gainesville and Lula, will finish an all-paved road from Atlanta to New York and will give to the resort section in the mountains of north Georgia and North Carolina a hard-surfaced outlet to both the north and south.

Contractors are now busily at work completing the stretch on this road between Lula and Cornelia. Work which for the past 30 days has made it necessary for tourists and motorists to Asheville from Atlanta to detour a distance of about 40 miles.

The completed road, which ought to be finished early in November, according to present plans, will run by Lawrenceville, Buford, Gainesville, Cornelia, Tallulah Falls, Lakemont, Clayton, Dillard, Ga., and Franklin and Sylva and Waynesville, in North Carolina.

Not only will this completed road make the resort sections of the mountains accessible to Atlantians and to Georgians generally, but it also will open an all-paved route from Atlanta to Washington and the east by Asheville and Lynchburg, Va.

Former Atlanta Minister Was Leading Figure in Stone Mountain Movement Twelve Years Ago.

BY R. E. POWELL.
Twelve or fourteen years ago, Dr. M. Ashby Jones, then pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, delivered the principal speech at a brilliant Capital City Club dinner which culminated in launching Gutzon Borglum's conception of a memorial to the heroes of the Confederacy.

Sunday afternoon, the same Dr. M. Ashby Jones, now pastor of one of the leading churches in St. Louis, will return to Atlanta—at the invitation of Mayor-elect James L. Key—to occupy a place on the platform with Mr. Key and Mr. Borglum, and, at the Fox theater meeting will renew his plea for the completion of this great work of art designed to honor soldiers who fought for a Lost Cause.

Father Friend of Lee.
Dr. Jones is probably the outstanding southern orator on subjects concerning the War Between the States. His father, Dr. J. William Jones, was General Robert E. Lee's chaplain and one of the closest friends of the Confederate leader. He wired his acceptance of the invitation to come here and participate in the Sunday meeting from Linville, N. C., where he is spending his vacation.

Dr. Jones will be at the Sunday meeting, to be held at 2:30 o'clock, that Mr. Borglum, for the first time, will reveal to an interested public the new details of the super-memorial which has previously been sketched in a general way by Mayor-elect Key. It contemplates, of course, that Mr. Borglum will be retained to carve upon the scarp of the mountain figures of double proportions to the original design made by him many years ago.

In a second trip to the mountain Wednesday Mr. Borglum viewed the towering wall of granite from widely separated focal points and pointed out to the group which accompanied him to the far more imposing effect of looking at the memorial from a park 1,500 to 2,000 feet removed from the actual figures.

This park, it has been decided, will be established as a memorial to the Venable, and will be known as Venable park, forming as it will, an open air observation spot which will be linked with Kennesaw Mountain, the National cemetery and Peachtree Hills by one of three available roads which can be converted into a great historic boulevard.

Space Is Selected.
In a general discussion of tentative plans for doubling the size of the memorial, Mr. Borglum Wednesday pointed to a bulge which rises 150 to 200 feet above the present Lukeman head of Lee and which will be almost in the center of the space of 600 feet required for the carving of the central

DEATH, GANG PROBE LINKED IN CHICAGO

Senator, Who Died of Poison, To Have Testified in Crime Probe.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(UN)—One of the deadliest poisons known to science killed State Senator John T. Joyce two weeks ago, shortly before his scheduled grand jury appearance to testify against gangsters, a coroner's jury decided today.

Whether Joyce had been murdered, or whether underworld threats had driven him to suicide were questions to which State's Attorney John A. Swanson still was seeking the answer.

Joyce's widow insisted that he had been slain. She had been in the bedroom with her husband for several hours until he fell asleep, just before his death, she said, precluding his taking the extremely rapid acting poison without her knowledge.

"We find that Senator Joyce came to his death from prussic acid poisoning administered by a person or persons unknown, said poison administered within 30 minutes before death," the jurors reported. "We are unable to determine by whom, or how administered."

A few minutes prior to the senator's death, said his widow, she answered an unexplained telephone call. When the phone rang, her husband was sleeping peacefully. Hardly had she lifted the receiver, she said, when she heard the senator scream in horror. She rushed back to his room, there to find his eyes bulging and his breath gasping. He died in her arms before she could summon a physician.

When the doctor arrived, he established that death had been caused by "oedema of the brain, due to toxic origin," which indicated presence of poison. That, coupled with the fact that Joyce planned to appear before a grand jury to amplify his charges against a group of hoodlums, spurred the investigation.

Joyce said that gunmen in an automobile bearing the state's attorney's banner had invaded his district, the forty-second ward, during last April's primary election.

He also had complained of threats, said his wife, that he would be killed if he attempted to amplify his charges to the grand jury.

HEADING FOR HAITI, SAYS OBSERVATORY

Disturbance.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Word was awaited tonight from Santo Domingo to the extent of the damage done by the hurricane which settled upon it late today and blotted it out from communication with the outside world.

At the same time other islands of the West Indies group and southeastern United States watched anxiously the progress of the tropical destroyer as it moved northward, on the basis of reports to the weather bureau at Washington.

On the heels of advice to the bureau at 9 p. m. that the disturbance, with a velocity greatly in excess of 100 miles an hour, was moving over the Dominican Republic and likely would pass between Turks island and Windward Passage Thursday before noon, the National observatory at Havana reported at 9:42 p. m. receipt of word that the hurricane had turned in its track and was moving toward Haiti.

The observatory said the high winds had done terrific damage and had devastated large sections of Santo Domingo. Dr. Carlos Millas, director of the observatory, held there was little likelihood of Cuba being struck by the hurricane.

Santo Domingo was cut off from communication shortly after 3 p. m. today when the ending of telephone service bore mute evidence that the storm had settled with a vengeance upon the island.

Advises received by the Pan-American Airways radio station at Miami indicated that San Juan, Porto Rico, and Port au Prince, Haiti, had not suffered from the disturbance.

The weather bureau issued the following advisory bulletin at 9 o'clock tonight:

HAVANA REPORTS DIFFER ON DIRECTION.
Havana, Sept. 3.—(P)—The National observatory at 9:42 p. m. (E. S. T.) reported that it had received definite information that the hurricane now raging in the Caribbean sea had turned in its track and was heading toward Haiti after having traversed and devastated large sections of Santo Domingo.
The observatory said the hurricane had done terrific damage but it had no reports of loss of life. The director, Dr. Carlos Millas, said there was little likelihood of its striking Cuba.
The observatory tonight said reports received there indicated the hurricane now in the Caribbean sea would sweep over the Bahamas, and probably would do considerable damage in Cuba.
According to the observatory report the province of Oriente and Camaguey probably will bear the brunt of the storm in Cuba. The northern section of Oriente, with the cities Bibara, Holguin, and Myria, and the southern cities of Guantanamo and Santiago de Cuba were mentioned specifically as in the danger zone.
Father Gutierrez said that the present course of the hurricane was apparently between northwest and west-northwest, and that it was directly in line with the Bahamas. Unless it veers from its present course, he said, these islands should feel its full strength within 74 hours.

ALL BUSINESS CALLED OFF.
PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Sept. 3.—(U. S. P.)—Reports received here late today said that a hurricane struck Santo Domingo city at a velocity of 200 miles between 2 and 4 p. m. today.
It was moving west-northwestward, toward Cape Haitien, at a speed of about 12 miles an hour.
Radio communication with Santo Domingo has been broken. All business was reported suspended at Santo Domingo.
HAITI STICKEN.
SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 3.—(Via Tropical Radio to United News.)—An intense hurricane, causing widespread damage, struck the island of Haiti today, according to advices received here.
The wind, blowing over Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, was reported as having reached a velocity of 160 miles an hour at 3:15 p. m., eastern standard time.
All means of overland communication with the storm-swept country were put out of commission.

MIAMI CUT FROM COMMUNICATION.
MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 3.—(P)—Cessation of radio communication between stations here and in Santo Domingo lent color this afternoon to unofficial reports that winds of terrific velocity had damaged that city.
The last radio message received by Pan-American Airways from its station in Santo Domingo was at 2:12 p. m. (eastern standard time) when a wind velocity of 136 miles an hour was reported, with a barometer reading of 29.07, a drop of .33 in 42 minutes.
E. F. Bourne, superintendent of communications for Pan-American, said transmission of radio messages through a wind of 160 miles an hour, such as was reported in Santo Domingo by the San Juan, Porto Rico, office of the Radio Corporation of America, later in the afternoon, would be "difficult."
Pan-American Airways' reports of winds in the Caribbean were made public by Richard W. Gray, government meteorologist here.
The tropical radio station at New Orleans received a report that the storm had struck the Dominican republic, with a northwest wind velocity of 162 miles an hour, and that the barometer at San Juan, Porto Rico, was dropping.
Cable service of All-America Cables, Inc., to Santo Domingo was interrupted this afternoon, according to a statement from the New York office of the company. The Miami office of the Western Union Telegraph Company said they had received no information of interrupted cable service.

The first radio report of a disturbance in the neighborhood of Santo Domingo was received here at 1:30 p. m., eastern standard time, when it was said a 66-mile wind was blowing from the north, with a barometric pressure of 29.40 at 2 p. m. It said the wind was 85 miles an hour from the north, with a pressure of 29.20; at 2:05 p. m. the wind was 102 miles an hour from the north with a barometric reading of 29.12; and at 2:12 p. m. the barometer read 29.07 with a 136-mile wind. No direction was given on this reading.
Gray said he had received no further weather reports after the 2:12 p. m. reading.
E. F. Bourne, superintendent of communications for Pan-American Airways, with headquarters here, said that a high wind, such as was reported in Santo Domingo this afternoon, would make transmission of radio messages difficult.
Bourne said that this might explain lack of further communication from the Santo Domingo station.
Gray said that he recalled but two automatically recorded wind velocities in excess of the 136-mile an hour mark. One of these was the 138 miles an hour during the hurricane that struck Miami in 1926, he said, and the other was of 150 miles an hour recorded in San Juan, Porto Rico, in 1928, before the anemometer blew away.
Bourne said he had been unable to contact Santo Domingo since the last weather report was received here at 2:12 p. m., eastern standard time, but that efforts were being made continuously to call the station there.

From San Juan, Porto Rico, All American cables received a report that the hurricane was traveling over the eastern end of the island of Haiti, which embraces the Dominican republic and apparently was headed out into shipping lanes. Other reports from the company were from Fisherman's Point, Cuba, where it was believed the full force of the storm might be felt there or nearby some time tomorrow.

HEAVY WIND STORM IN ARKANSAS.
ELDORADO, Ark., Sept. 3.—(P)—High winds that reached tornado intensity one mile south of here late today swooped down over this section of south Arkansas and inflicted serious damage here and at Smackover, 15 miles north of Eldorado. Heavy rains accompanied the wind.
The Onacha Valley Refining Company plant, one mile south of town, received the brunt of the tornado. Sections of the plant were wrecked and torn loose by the wind but eight men working in the plant escaped uninjured.

From San Juan, Porto Rico, All American cables received a report that the hurricane was traveling over the eastern end of the island of Haiti, which embraces the Dominican republic and apparently was headed out into shipping lanes. Other reports from the company were from Fisherman's Point, Cuba, where it was believed the full force of the storm might be felt there or nearby some time tomorrow.

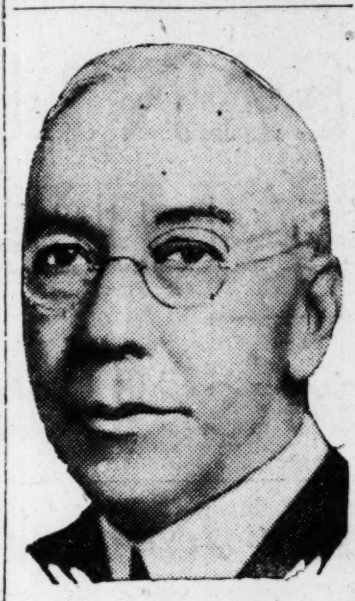

16-Year-Old Boy Confesses Slaying
BALTIMORE, Sept. 3.—(P)—A 16-year-old boy confessed today to police, they announced, that he killed his employer with a monkey wrench, hid his body in a barrel and then started a month's career of luxury with money he obtained by forging the other's name.
The boy, Kennard Thompson, was arrested yesterday in an automobile he had bought with money obtained by forgery, and last night the body of the employer, Herbert G. Wetters, a chemist, was found in a barrel in the rear of his small establishment in the west end.
Wetters lived alone in an apartment over his shop and the shop, where Wetters made soap and perfume, had been closed for several weeks, but his sister and brother said they thought he had gone to Ocean City, Md., for a vacation. Kennard had been in the employ of Wetters, who was middle-aged, about a year, and lived with him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(P)—If Heywood Broun, newspaper columnist, is not elected to congress he will have his wife to blame for it.

"Peace" negotiations, which have been marked by happy progress so far, and which have reached the stage to justify the prediction that they will be ended even more happily after the Fox theater meeting Sunday afternoon, proceeded with Mayor-elect Key and J. Lawrence McCord devoting most of their time to conferences.
Committee to be Named.
Some time during the week, probably Friday, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale is expected to announce the personnel of the committee which is to begin the semi-official survey of the whole project in the interest of the city of Atlanta.

On this committee, Mayor Ragsdale is not expected to confine his appointments to Atlanta, but it has been indicated he will go into other sections of the country and probably select such men as Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern railway, and Collier W. W. Fuller, former general counsel of the American Tobacco Company and widely known for his interest in any cause related to the Confederacy.

Members of the conference group Wednesday gave renewed assurance that this committee will be cordially authorized by Mr. Venable and members of his family who own, with him, the mountain property and much of the additional land which will be required for the establishment of Venable park. Bankers, lawyers, doctors and editors are understood to be included among those who are to be named on the committee.

Debt Adjustment.
Signs, also, that the debts of the association, amounting to between $45,000 and $50,000, will be adjusted and that the property will be conveyed to the city, without any encumbrance or hindrance, were seen in the discussions, which have taken place during the week.
No little financial help toward the new conception of the Stone Mountain memorial, vastly enlarged as it is, is anticipated from the United States government which, several years ago, after Borglum made an address to a joint session of congress authorizing the minting of the Confederate half dollars—a gesture which no other successful power ever accorded an erstwhile enemy.

One of the incidental features of the present negotiations, which has been almost overlooked as other obstacles have disappeared, is the probability of Mr. Borglum being placed under arrest to answer indictments which are now pending against him in DeKalb county.
The DeKalb county grand jury now in session is expected to follow the action of its predecessor when it concludes its work and submits recommendations, probably late today or Friday, and ask Solicitor-General Claude C. Smith to ask the court to order that the indictments be nolle prossed.

MUSICIANS PERMIT FREE CONCERT SUNDAY.
The Atlanta Federation of Musicians, at a meeting held Wednesday, voted to permit the Fox grand orchestra, and any volunteer musicians who wished to augment it, to present a number of concert selections and patriotic numbers at the reception of Mr. Borglum at that theater next Sunday afternoon without charge.
The action was taken as a compliment to Mr. Borglum and was on the motion of Enrico Leide, conductor of the Fox orchestra, who is a close personal friend of the famous sculptor. The stage hands' union took similar action in regard to the stage crew which will be needed for the occasion.

Venable's Opponents Invited to Mass Meet

W. H. Braswell, who will speak in the interest of the candidacy of James R. Venable for DeKalb county commissioner at a meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the DeKalb county courthouse, has invited Mr. Venable's opponents to attend the session, he announced Wednesday. He stated he will give "facts" concerning the present administration.

Watermelon Cutting For Wood Postponed

Southside supporters of J. O. Wood announced Wednesday that the watermelon cutting in the interest of his race for the legislature had been postponed from tonight until 8 o'clock Friday night. A conflicting event at the Grant park pavilion tonight made the change in date necessary, the committee stated.

Newly Discovered Notebooks Hold Andree's Polar Secrets

SEVERAL SWEDISH FLAGS ALSO FOUND IN CAMP

(Copyright, 1936, and All Rights Reserved in North and South America and in Japan, by The Associated Press.)
TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 3.—(P)—Further interesting discoveries, one of which was most sensational in its nature, were made today by Swedish and Norwegian experts who are examining the relics of the arctic expedition of Salomon August Andree brought to this port by Dr. Gunnar Horn and his exploration party.
This most important new find, overlooked until government scientists began their investigation of the remains of the famous polar aerial argosy in 1907, and one which may mean much not only to science but to literature and drama as well, consisted of two notebooks. They were found wrapped in an undershirt at Andree's back. Evidently the explorer, near death, took one last precautionary measure that posterity might know the details of the first expedition ever to attempt to attain the north pole by the aerial route.
One of these books contains only a few pages of writing. The other is full and quite legible. This latter, with other Andree records previously found, is expected to tell the world the whole story of the Swedish explorer's balloon expedition.

The examiners read, in their find, the evidence that the dying adventurer and scientist, apparently aware that his end was imminent, had wrapped his precious records in the shirt, placed them next to his skin, on his back and then lay down upon them in the hope that his dead body would cover and shield them until some far north explorer could come upon the scene.
It was a forlorn hope but it worked.
Among the other interesting discoveries were several Swedish flags about a yard square. They probably had been used on the balloon, sled and boat. The scientists were surprised to find so much and to find it so well preserved.

pany, publishers of the Baltimore Sun and Evening Sun, and leaves sums of from $50,000 to $250,000 each to various relatives and others.

The widow, Mrs. Jessie Gary Black, and their five children, with one exception, are provided for in a provision that gives her one-third of the residuary estate and four children the remaining two-thirds.

A $50,000 trust fund is provided for Van Lear Black, Jr., the publisher's eldest son. Mrs. Jessie Black Blackiston, his daughter, is bequeathed $250,000, and her husband, Buchanan Blackiston, $100,000.

Mrs. J. Walter Lord, of Baltimore, a widow and a life-long friend of Mr. Black, who was with him on the yacht Salvo when the publisher disappeared last month, is left $100,000.

Requests of $25,000 each are made to his two pilots, G. J. Geyensdorfer and J. B. Scholte, of Holland, who flew with Mr. Black on his flights from London to Tokyo, and to Cape Town and the Dutch East Indies.

The publisher's confidential secretary, Thomas W. Rogan, of Baltimore, is bequeathed $100,000 and a similar sum is left to Miss Alison Bone, of London, Eng., his secretary there.

Testimony on the circumstances of the death of the publisher at sea off the New Jersey coast, was given at the hearing by Captain John N. Kelly, of the yacht Salvo, a steward, Thomas C. Cartwright, Mr. Black's valet, and Percy Sellers, of England.

The will was made January 8, 1929, in London, before he started a flight that took him to Tokyo, and then, after a trip by ship across the Pacific, from San Francisco to Baltimore.

It was directed that in case he died in the United States his body be buried at sea.

The minor bequests, of from $1,000 to $5,000 each, were to James Bone, London editor, of the Manchester Guardian, the father of his London secretary; Paul Patterson, president of the A. S. Abell Company, and Mrs. Albert Ritchie, mother of the Maryland governor, among others.

The children not specifically mentioned are: Mrs. Alfred J. Bolton, Gary Black and Madeleine Black. Captain Kelly, Cartwright and Sellers repeated at the hearing testimony they had given at other hearings of the dis appearance of Mr. Black the evening of August 18.

The yacht had sailed from New York for the Chesapeake bay and the witnesses said, the publisher had been seen on deck after dinner and then, after more than an hour, the disappearance was discovered by the valet.

Probate Judge Kaither announced at the conclusion of the hearing that the court accepted the evidence as proving that Mr. Black was dead and letters of administration were granted Harry C. Black, who was named as trustee.

GANDHI EXPLAINS SPARING PAPER USE

POONA, India, Sept. 3.—(AP)—All of Mahatma Gandhi's letters from Yeroda prison are written on bits of paper.

In a general letter answering the query of several boys why he always wrote on such small pieces of paper, Gandhi says:

"Firstly, prisoners must make use of the least possible quantity of things. Secondly, one who is under a vow of 'aparigraha' (nonpossession) is trustee and guardian of all property, and hence I must make use of all property like a miser. Thirdly, this property also belongs to us. Does it not? With whose money is it acquired? Fourthly, we should make as little use as possible of such things in a country as poor as ours. Fifthly, under such circumstances my soul feels miserable if I make use of more money than necessary."

Gandhi's health is good. His food, principally goat's milk and fruit, is brought from outside, and he has a fan in his cell propelled by a little oil engine.

Vacation Near End For 60,000 Pupils

Young Atlanta Wednesday deserted play and prepared to do some serious studying for the impending 1930-31 school term, which begins in earnest Monday.

Almost 60,000 children of the borough Wednesday visited the various schools to which they have been assigned for the new school year and registered.

The procedure is an innovation here, but is designed to save a whole day's time for the entire lot.

Many of the students will enjoy a last taste of summer freedom today and Friday. Only those required to take examinations will be kept busy for the remainder of the week.

Early Monday morning, however, students of the boroughs of the city of Atlanta and Fulton and DeKalb counties will begin work with a zest.

Teachers of the Fulton county system met Wednesday for organization, and those of the Atlanta borough system will meet Friday morning. Registration of students in the DeKalb county schools will take place today, Friday and Saturday.

New Church Building To Be Opened Tonight

The new Sunday school and church activities building of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, at North avenue and Courtland street, will be formally opened at 8 o'clock tonight at a reception which will continue until 10 o'clock and to which the public is invited.

Ushers will be present to escort visitors through the various rooms of the five stories, which contain many interesting and unique features.

Dr. Marion McH. Hull, Sunday school superintendent, who is credited with the many novel features of the new building, declared on the eve of the formal opening that "nothing is lacking that will minister to the physical, mental, social or spiritual needs of any age, group, male or female."

The building will be first occupied for class work next Sunday morning.

More Ballot Boxes Held in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Ballot boxes in four counties had been impounded today as alleged irregularities in a fifth were to be submitted to a grand jury.

The ballot boxes for Lee county were seized yesterday by J. W. Braswell, assistant attorney general, and H. K. Elliott, state law enforcement officer, and placed in the vault of the circuit clerk's office.

Alleged irregularities in Madison county were before the grand jury, which convened there today.

Braswell declined to make a statement concerning the seizure of the Lee county ballots at Opelika, saying he was acting under strict orders of his superior. Here it was said stuffing and other irregularities caused the seizure.

Previously the ballot boxes in Jackson, Chambers and Choctaw counties had been impounded pending grand jury action on charges of irregularities in the democratic primary of August 12.

Charges made in some of the counties included voting of dead persons, permitting persons not qualified to cast ballots and voting several times by the same persons.

Charles C. McCall, attorney general, said he had reports from various sections of irregularities and declared he would investigate every such charge.

A probe by the county executive committee in Houston county is under way, the charges said to involve fraudulent voting, principally in Dothan, the attorney-general's office said.

Other counties in which investigation may be made were listed by the attorney-general's office as Marion, DeKalb, Lawrence, Marshall and Walker counties.

Body of Accident Victim Identified

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The body of a young hitch-hiker, fatally injured August 21 when he was knocked from the top of a motor truck as it passed under a bridge, was identified today as that of James O'Day, 17, of near Fayetteville, N. C.

Edward R. Johnson, about the same age, who said he was from Garland, N. C., was riding with O'Day and made the identification.

Alabama Prelate Hurt in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Bishop Thomas J. Toolan, of Mobile, Ala., was severely cut about the head and face today when his automobile was struck by another and turned over twice. A summons was issued for the bishop on a charge of reckless driving, and on Ercher Schmal, driver of the other machine, for failure to give right of way. The Mobile bishop is visiting his brother, the Rev. William Toolan, pastor of St. Edward's Catholic church. He was not believed seriously injured.

Russians Protest Gold Mine Ruling

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The soviet embassy here today issued a statement attacking the decision of an arbitration court yesterday to the effect that the Russian government must pay the English Lena Gold Field Company 13,000,000 pounds.

The Lena company contended that soviet interference had prevented fulfillment of government contracts, and development of concessions in Russia.

The embassy's statement follows:

"The soviet government does not recognize the validity of the arbitration tribunal, and accordingly any award they make can not be enforced."

Bibb County To Quit Working State Convicts

MACON, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Commissioners of Bibb county have decided not to accept any more felon convicts from the state to be employed in public work. The commissioners said that the cost of working the felony convicts is too high for the results obtained. Felony prisoners now on the chain gang will be returned to the prison board by January 1.

EVIDENCE AGAINST CROSBY RULED OUT

HAZLEHURST, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The state completed direct evidence late Wednesday in the trial of Lee Crosby, charged with murder in connection with the death of Ben Nabors here on July 26. Judge J. H. Thomas ruled out evidence which the state sought to present in an effort to show conspiracy to kill, limiting testimony to events of the day of the killing.

The jury was completed Wednesday morning out of a list of 61 names called for service. At the completion of the jury Judge Thomas requested all other persons not serving on the jury and who are subject to jury service to absent themselves from the courtroom so that they would not be disqualified at the trial of Tom Crosby, which is to be held later.

The state presented 20 witnesses during the afternoon, resting at 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The evidence was about as shown at the time the crime was committed, the witnesses describing the shooting which took place on a crowded street here.

The defense announced that it would present 20 witnesses Thursday, following which arguments will begin. It is expected that the trial may last until Friday noon, in which event a trial of Tom Crosby will not be held until the first term of court.

The Crosby brothers were indicted jointly, but Solicitor W. B. Gibbs elected to try Lee Crosby first. It was he who is said to have fired the actual shot that killed Nabors.

MACON MAYOR OPPOSES SERVICE CHARGE ON GAS

MACON, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Mayor Glen Tongue in a statement Wednesday said he had been proposed by the Macdon Gas Company in an application for a franchise, the Georgia public service commission.

The mayor said the rates included a fixed minimum service charge of $1.00 per cubic foot per thousand cubic feet as follows:

First 3,000 cubic feet, $1.35; next 2,000 cubic feet, 85 cents; all over 5,000 cubic feet, 65 cents, all net.

The mayor, who appeared at the hearing before the service commission, said he opposed the service charge and that if the charge were levied in Macdon, that it also should be made applicable in Rome, Ga., since the two cities were about equal distances from Atlanta.

PLANT IN VALDOSTA DAMAGED BY FIRE

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Fire damaged the plant of the Gulf Refining Company Wednesday afternoon and though still burning tonight, it was under control. The blaze first broke out at 1 o'clock this afternoon, while a tank car was being emptied into a storage tank.

The flames spread over other tanks, when the first blast scattered gasoline for a considerable distance. Firemen kept the tanks cooled with water, however.

Best Mixer, electrician, who volunteered to try to cut off the stream from the tank car, was seriously burned and is in a hospital. He failed in his effort and gas continued to flow all afternoon, blaz— as it ran from the tank.

Debt Plan Only Major Issue, Declares Carswell Manager

Judge Hardeman Urges License Tax Diversion in Speech at Decatur.

DECATUR, Ga., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—Judge R. N. Hardeman, campaign manager for George H. Carswell, candidate for governor, in a speech in the court house here this morning, declared that the only major issue of the gubernatorial campaign was the question of a prompt solution of the state's financial difficulties, and declared that the Carswell plan was the only one submitted that was feasible or practicable.

The speaker invited the supporters of any other candidate who might be present to outline any other workable plan that has been suggested, but received no response.

Financial Conditions.

"The discussion of the state's present situation is not just political talk," Judge Hardeman declared. "The state's finances are in an acute condition—a condition that calls for an immediate remedy. The plan proposed by Mr. Carswell is that for one year only the $5,000,000 license tax revenue, now going to the highway department, shall be devoted to the purpose of getting the state out of debt. The state auditor says that this much is required to liquidate the state's accumulated indebtedness. Mr. Carswell pledges that this diversion will be asked for only one year, after which the whole license tax revenue will go back to the highway department."

"Keep in view the fact that even with this diversion the department will still have approximately $14,000,000 on which to operate for the year 1931. Even if it does not approve of the diversion of the tag revenue for one year, it should not only be willing but glad to make the sacrifice for the honor and the good name of Georgia."

Remedy Sought. Mr. Carswell has invited his opponents to advance any better plan than his if they had any. Mr. Holder says he must wait until July of next year to see where the state stands then to be in a position to offer a remedy.

"He, and other opponents of Carswell, have wriggled and squirmed but no plan has been forthcoming that would work, or offer any approximate relief. Mr. Holder, one time for bonds and afterwards the leader of the anti-bond forces, has evidently returned to his original love. He now declares himself as favoring bonds to meet the state debt. True he calls them 'notes' but this is a plain subterfuge, for a bond, like a note, is nothing but a promise to pay."

Bonds Opposed. "Mr. Carswell is opposed to any kind of bonds. He is being attacked all over the state because in the past he advocated the issuance of bonds. These attacks also prove the despera-

CLAIMS CONTRACTORS PAID FOR HOLDER TRIP

Candidate Rivers Makes Heated Attack on Carswell and Holder in Edison Speech.

EDISON, Ga., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—In a speech delivered at Edison this morning, Ed Rivers, candidate for governor, denounced Candidates Holder and Carswell for their "political trading proclivities."

"From press accounts of Holder's speeches Tuesday, I note he claims Carswell has promised the highway chairmanship to W. T. Anderson, of Macon, and appointments as judges to Hardeman and George Lankford in return for their valiant support of his candidacy," said Mr. Rivers. "Have you good people ever seen a better example of a man throwing stones from within his own glass house? Truly, in this case, the pot is blacker, even, than the kettle it talks about."

"To get a true picture of Holder's blackness, you must realize he has just completed a so-called whirlwind tour of the ninth congressional district, which was, in reality, as bald a political trading expedition as has ever been staged in Georgia. The promise of roads was traded for the hope of votes; promising the same thing in all his speeches, with no hope nor intention of fulfillment."

"Accompanying him on his 'gypsy trading caravan' were several road contractors, all abetting Holder in every deception he practiced on the people. One of these road contractors, secure in Holder's promise of future state contracts, paid the expenses of the entire party on this tour; paid their hotel bills and all with his own personal check. Yet, Holder has the Gargantuan gall to accuse another candidate of making political promises when he, himself, is now making every promise he can think of and has done so for 20 years."

"The entire business, both Holder and Carswell, smells to high heaven of every political deception and underhand trickery known in the books."

Under the Carswell plan, every debt the state now owes can be paid in full by April, if the governor calls an extra session this fall, as it is reported he may do. I defy any other candidate to bring forward a plan

Will Write No Cards, Promises John Holder

AMERICUS, Ga., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—John W. Holder, candidate for governor, speaking to Sumter county voters here tonight, said that one of the recent phases of this campaign is the effort of the present administration to force upon the people a man of its own selection for the next governor of Georgia.

"The wave of popular sentiment," Holder said, "that is carrying me on to certain victory in the coming primary has unwisely some of those who have been directing the campaign of George Carswell from behind the curtains, and they have suddenly rushed into view and disclosed the 'nigger in the woodpile.'"

"The present governor of Georgia thinks so well of his administration that he wants to perpetuate it. For fear that some may not know, I am in this race, he resorts to card-writing in behalf of that candidate. This is a very unusual thing for a governor to do. I am sometimes charged with being a politician. I want to assure those who have confidence in me that when I am in the governor's chair I will be governing for the people and not for the politicians."

"The chairman of the democratic executive committee also comes to the aid of this administration candidate. It begins to look as if there is an effort to hand down to the people a man that has been selected in conference to serve them as governor."

"There are many problems of government ahead of us. Problems of finances, schools, roads, and administration of our state government. It will take a governor who is more effective than recent ones to lead in working out these reforms. The thing for the voter to decide, after all, is which one of the candidates for governor can render the state the greatest service."

"A past governor has sought to cover up his failures by accusing me of having too much influence with the general assembly. I refuse to accept responsibility for the failure of others. I am not to blame because others failed to lead. I do say that if I had so much influence, as my opponents charge, when I am elected governor, I should surely have more after I am elected governor. The ability to lead makes a good governor. Inability to lead makes a poor governor. I offer my public record as the best proof of my ability to work with others and to get things accomplished in the general assembly."

Holder Dates. Headquarters of John N. Holder in Atlanta announced today Mr. Holder's speaking tour. He will speak at Dalton and Cartersville; Friday at Cedartown; Saturday at Canton, Gainesville and Holbrook's Campground; and on Monday, two days before the election, at Decatur.

Russell Speakers Will Cover State

WINDER, Ga., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—A volunteer group of friends of Richard B. Russell, Jr., have arranged to make a number of speeches in various sections of the state in behalf of his candidacy for governor, it was announced here today by the Russell office, in a statement as follows: "We have been informed that a group of friends of Richard B. Russell, Jr., have voluntarily undertaken to make a number of speeches Thursday and Friday and Saturday of this week in various sections of the state in behalf of his campaign for governor."

"It is stated that the speakers desire only to present Mr. Russell's qualifications to the people for their consideration. 'Among those whose names were given, and their engagements are: Lawrence Camp, representative, Camille county; Luthersville, Woodbury, Brownwood, Plain, Pineview, L. A. Waple, county school superintendent, Bleckley county; Emory, Chester, Chaucey, Milton, Jacksonville, Lenoir, Mitty, John C. Mitchell, senator, Cherokee circuit; Woodstock, Alphaetta, Fairmont, Berryton, Dodge, Senator-elect John W. Weeks; Apalachee, Woodville, Bowmans, Roseville, A. L. Brown, attorney; Senoia, Jenkinsburg, Austell, Bremen, Marietta, Porterdale, Frank A. Hooper, Jr., ex-representative Fulton county; Acworth, Aragon, Kingston, Cassville, Paul H. Boyd, ex-representative Forsyth county; Rockmart, Roswell, Senator-elect J. B. Weller, city of Atlanta; Ducoire, Toccoa, Appling, White Plains, Luke Arnold, councilman, city of Atlanta; Ducoire, Toccoa, Winder, Jewel, J. A. McFarland, attorney, Lindale, Tallapoosa."

"We appreciate the efforts of these gentlemen, which is typical of the active support being given Mr. Russell's candidacy by his thousands of supporters throughout the state."

Speaks at Ludowici. LUDOWICI, Ga., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—Reiterating the need of reforms in the state's system of government and deploring tactics employed by his opponents in the campaign, Richard B. Russell, Jr., candidate for governor, addressed a crowd of Long county voters here Wednesday.

"I am still advocating laws which reduce the overhead expense of government by eliminating useless offices, the saving of approximately a million dollars a year to school patrons by distribution of schoolbooks at cost and other measures I have frequently discussed," said Mr. Russell.

Carswell Takes Dig At Holder on 'Trades' FORT GAINES, Ga., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—Speaking to an audience of Clay county citizens tonight, George H. Carswell vigorously replied to charges made by John N. Holder that he (Carswell) had made political trades, promises, appointments in exchange for support in his race for governor.

"I entered this race absolutely free of any political trades or promises," he said. "I promised the people of Georgia that if elected governor I would go into the governor's office absolutely free of any entangling alliances, trades or promises. Appointment to judicial and other positions of responsibility in the government of Georgia is too sacred and important a thing to be promised, traded or bartered for votes. Mr. Holder does not seem to have this idea."

"The voters of this state have come to learn that there is but one major issue in this campaign," Mr. Carswell told his hearers, "and that is the necessity of devising some way to meet the state's past due obligations."

"I was the first candidate for governor to offer the only available and reasonable remedy for this debt and after my opponents realized how the people of Georgia came to my support in this proposal, they began floundering around in efforts to present other plans but their proposals have met with objections because it has been proven to the public that all their plans are worthless and presented only as attempts to discredit me."

The speaker addressed a gathering at Milledgeville in this county this afternoon.

To Speak in Savannah. Officials of the George H. Carswell campaign left Atlanta early Wednesday morning to join Mr. Carswell in Savannah, where they will participate in a meeting planned by the Chatham County Carswell Club this Thursday evening. John G. Kennedy, president of the club, will preside at the meeting. The Carswell club has a membership of 3,500 persons in Savannah.

Judge R. N. Hardeman, manager of the Carswell campaign, will share the speaking program with Mr. Carswell.

Speeches of Perry Lessened by Duties

James A. Perry, in a statement issued Wednesday night, said that his acceptance of the request of the public service commission to represent that body at the hearing of the injunction brought by the Georgia Power Company seeking to prevent the commission from exercising authority in the Crisp county power case would make it necessary for him to revise his speaking schedule for the remainder of the campaign.

"I had intended speaking at least twice every day up to and including next Tuesday," Mr. Perry said, "but it appears to be my duty to represent the commission at this hearing, and I will give that duty full attention."

"As a matter of fact, there is but little left to do during this campaign. The people know that I am the only candidate that has announced a complete platform. I suggest the commercialization of the air rights of the state railroad property in Atlanta and the non-railroad property in Chattanooga as a means of paying the state's debts without interfering with any other department, and this can be done by the general assembly without constitutional amendment."

"I favor the elimination of the ad valorem tax as a means of supporting the state, and the limitation of the rights of counties to levy taxes. I favor schoolbooks furnished by the state at cost. I oppose any increase in taxes and will veto any appropriation bill for which ample revenue has not been provided. If I am elected the state will live within its income."

Deny That Audience Walked Out on Slaton

Replying to the charge made Tuesday from Harris headquarters that the audience that was present in the Lawrenceville courthouse dwindled rapidly while the former governor was speaking, Hewlett A. Hall, campaign manager for Slaton, Wednesday issued the following statement:

"The campaign headquarters of Senator Harris published a statement in the papers Wednesday that when Governor Slaton spoke at Lawrenceville last Monday his audience bodily arose and left the courthouse in the midst of his speech."

"The senator evidently is a far-sighted candidate, otherwise his campaign headquarters would deal in the truth instead of stooping to deliberate falsehood."

"We received today from Lawrenceville a telegram denouncing the Harris headquarters statement. It is signed by Judge N. L. Hutchins, who introduced Governor Slaton at Lawrenceville; State Senator John I. Kelly, State Senator W. W. Jones, Sheriff C. F. Griswell and W. J. Butler. The telegram follows:

"The statement that the Lawrenceville audience walked out on Governor Slaton is a false and infamous reflection on the people of Gwinnett county. They are not the sort of people who would treat a distinguished visitor with such discourtesy and lack of hospitality. They deeply resent this slur put upon them and will express themselves accordingly at the ballot box next Wednesday."

"Governor Slaton's address here was on the highest plane. He spoke to a large audience that increased in size while he was speaking. They gave him only as attentive hearing but an enthusiastic reception after the speech. Only two men left the courtroom and both of them were called out. One of them got back in time to shake hands with Governor Slaton and apologize for having to leave, and told the governor he was for him."

"Gwinnett county is going for Slaton, you may rest assured."

Beating for Slaton Predicted by Harris

Senator W. J. Harris in a radio address here Wednesday night predicted that Slaton will be the "worst beaten man who ever ran for the United States senate in Georgia since the Civil War." Harris said that the former governor's attitude in opposition to government operation of Muscle Shoals, and declared the "fertilizer trust" as supporting Slaton because, the speaker claimed, he was responsible for prosecution of certain manufacturers for entering into a price agreement which cost the farmers $7 a ton.

Answering Mr. Slaton's criticism of his support of certain appropriations for Florida, Senator Harris said that but for the appropriation for combating the Mediterranean fruit fly "every Georgia peach and watermelon and other fruits and vegetables would have been condemned and the farmers and peach growers of Georgia would have lost millions of dollars."

Hewlett A. Hall, Slaton campaign manager, issued a statement denying one from Harris headquarters in which it was said that Slaton's audience at Lawrenceville last Monday "arose and left the courthouse in the midst of his speech." The Slaton statement quoted Judge N. L. Hutchins, who introduced Governor Slaton at Lawrenceville, and others, as saying the audience increased as Mr. Slaton spoke, and that the only two who left were called away on business. The telegram from Lawrenceville said he was given "an enthusiastic reception."

Too Late To Notify For Absentee Voting

Absentee voting by mail in the Georgia democratic primary is permitted providing county ordinaries are notified 30 days before election—and that time is now past—Mrs. Bessie Anderson, secretary of the state democratic committee, announced Wednesday.

Many requests are coming in from throughout the state inquiring whether it is possible to vote in the primary by mail, she said. And the answer is yes, providing the proper notification is given. It is also too late now, she said, to arrange for voting in the run-over primary, providing there is one, as this election would fall on Wednesday, October 1.

Warning Is Issued By Manager Hughes

Attention to the fact that there is no run-over provided for in the race for secretary of state is called in a statement issued Wednesday by N. Hughes, campaign manager for John Wilson. The statement, in part, is as follows:

"It is time to warn the voters of Georgia about last-minute efforts of designing politicians."

"All of the other candidates for secretary of state are good and honorable men. However, they are largely making local appeals in their respective communities. Their political allies are now begging the voters to wait and take John Wilson as a second choice. This misstatement of the law is honestly made by some people, but is being put out in most instances deliberately to stem the tide for Mr. Wilson. There is no run-over provided by law in the secretary of state's race. If there was, I am confident that when the votes are counted John Wilson's majority will eliminate the thought of a run-over."

A suit for $50,000 damages was filed Wednesday in Fulton superior court by Mrs. E. W. White against the Waldrop-Wright Grain Company for the death of her husband, who was killed by an automobile truck August 7. The accident occurred at Moreland avenue and Glenwood. White, a printer, connected with the composing room of The Constitution, was 62 years old. The plaintiff is represented by George and John L. Westmoreland and F. Joe Turner, Jr.

Victim Loses $43 To Bandit Quartet L. Schwartzberg, of a Capitol avenue address, reported Wednesday to police that he was held up and robbed of $43 about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning by four white men occupying a blue sedan. The bandits drove up and accosted Schwartzberg at Capitol avenue and Capitol square, according to police reports, one of them holding him at the point of a gun while another searched him thoroughly, removing his shoes and socks to make sure no money was concealed in them. One of the pair remaining in the car repeatedly urged his companion, who held the gun, to "go ahead and shoot him," Schwartzberg stated.

We Got An Idea --and found we didn't need it!

Not so long ago Atlanta's Blue Book came off the press. Which is to say, a register of Atlanta's socially prominent men and women.

It was then we got the idea

How beautifully business-like it would be to send a letter to each of these folks—to gently suggest that they open a nice, convenient charge account with us! What a rollicking good thought! We patted ourselves on the back for a while of an idea.

Came morning. And with it the thought that first of all a check-up would have to be made to see just how many Blue-Bookers already had accounts with us. No use repeating ourselves or they themselves. And beside, a stamp's a stamp.

Out of the 1,000 names chosen at random from the Blue Book, 881 actually have active charge accounts at Davison's! Which was nice and all like that, and we're proud and grateful, of course—but it left us only 119 personal letters to write. And how we do love writing personal letters!

But anyway---it won't be long till we're 100% with Atlanta. And we know why---being hard-working ourself. Whether one works extra-hard for a swift-rolling dollar, or whether it comes easy, one likes to spend it in a safe place....a store of unfailing high quality and prices that "Cannot Be Undersold."

Why should a school child have a Waterman's?

Any writing teacher will tell you quickly enough! It's just this—the better the pen, the better the handwriting. Don't handicap your child—give him the best.

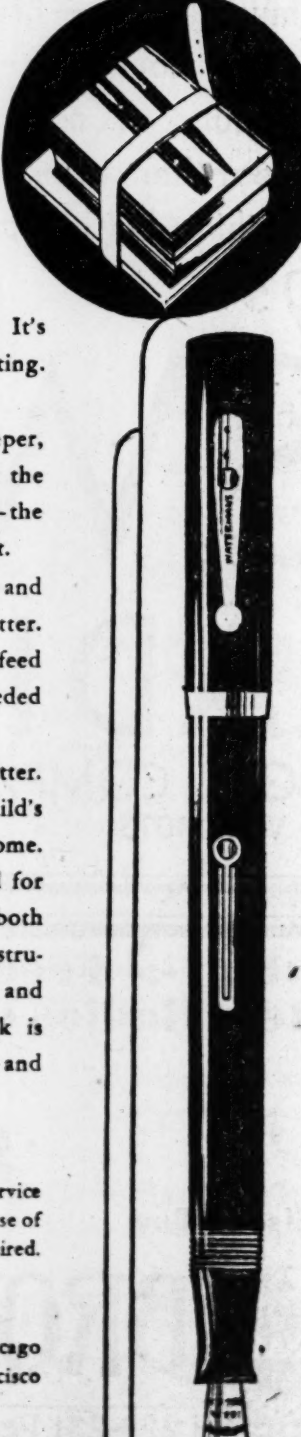

Waterman's pens write better. Ask any bookkeeper, or other steady users of pens. He'll tell you that the way a fountain pen writes depends on two things—the pen point itself, and how the ink flows to the point.

Waterman's make their own gold pen points and have done so for 47 years—no wonder they are better. Then, every Waterman's has the patented spoon feed which brings the ink to the pen point just as it is needed—no skipping, no blotting.

Every Waterman's has these features—writes better. Select the one that suits your purse and your child's hand. It will amply repay both of you for years to come. There is a wide choice of Waterman's pens suited for school use. Those illustrated are $4 and $5. Others both higher and lower in price. All are fine writing instruments. Always use Waterman's Inks—for school and general correspondence Waterman's new Blue Ink is especially good—a clear, bright blue, easy to read and easy on the eyes.

Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defects. Service Stations are maintained at the addresses below for the purpose of making good our guarantee and for servicing our pens as required.

Commission To Fix Fulton Tax Rate at Special Meet

No Increase Expected for 1930, Declares Chairman Inman; Name of Willis Drive Changed.

The Fulton county tax rate for 1930 will be fixed by the county commission at a special meeting to be held next week, it was announced Wednesday following the regular meeting of the board. It is expected that the rate will remain the same as in previous years.

Edward H. Inman, chairman of the finance committee, said he does not see that the rate will be changed from $1 for county purposes. In addition to the regular county tax rate, there is a rate of 10 cents for schools and 50 cents for the state, making the total rate $1.60.

Minister Honored. On the petition of residents of Willis drive, the name of that street Wednesday was changed by the commission to Dodson drive, in honor of the Rev. H. C. Dodson, for 40 years pastor of the Central Christian church. The street runs from Cascade avenue to Campbellton road. The change was made to avoid confusion with the parallel street, Willis Mill road.

The commission granted a petition for repaving of Willis Mill road, promising to do the work when county forces can reach the project. Willis Mill road runs from Cascade to Campbellton. Commissioner Paul S. Etheridge, chairman of the public works committee, said there is no chance to pave the street before next spring, although the county will put it in possible shape at once.

Deeds for Highway. Deeds to a proposed link in the Kennesaw Mountain-Peachtree Memorial Park-Stone Mountain highway, rendered by Sam C. Crane, were referred to the public works committee. The deeds are to a right-of-way 60 feet wide and 1,400 feet long, near Buckhead.

A petition to widen and repave Westlake from Simpson to Mosley drive was referred to the public works committee for a report. Westlake is said to be an important thoroughfare. On the request of Superintendent Jere A. Wells, of the county schools, the commission voted to have county mechanics inspect twice a year the busses which transport children to and from county schools. This action was taken to safeguard the children, the bus operators being required to make the busses safe when defects are found in brakes or other equipment, it was said.

Census Appropriation. The commission voted an appropriation of $200 to be a part of the $1,500 fund being raised by the council of Atlanta to fight for the city's rights in the federal census.

Arthur Atkinson, county policeman detailed as a sanitary inspector, was dismissed for "the good of the service," and George Whitehead, county filling station operator, was appointed to succeed Atkinson. Ralph Moody was given Whitehead's place as filling station operator.

Three New Members Named to Committee. The three new members of the Atlanta borough council—Thomas C. McLaurin, chairman of the third ward; John M. Owen, councilman from the sixth, and Alderman James R. Seawright, of the ninth—were given committee assignments Monday by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale.

Election of the trio completes the full membership of the borough council of 20 members for the first time in the past several months. Mr. McLaurin was appointed to the streets committee and board of firemasters, succeeding Councilman J. W. Rountree, and to the auditorium and printing committees, succeeding Councilman C. L. Chosewood. Councilman Owen was appointed chairman of minutes, vice chairman of the fire committee and a member of the finance, benevolence and pension and auditorium committees, to succeed Councilman J. C. Hardy. Alderman Seawright was appointed as chairman of the electric and other railways committee, and a member of the streets, charter revision, electric lights and cemetery committees, to succeed Alderman O. H. Williamson.

Accountant Admitted As Partner in Firm. William J. Carter, certified public accountant, has been admitted to the firm of Mount & Clapp. It was announced Wednesday, and the name of the company has been changed to Mount, Clapp & Carter.

Mr. Carter has been resident manager of the company for two years and has been connected with the organization for five years. The firm has offices in New York and other cities, the local offices being located in the Citizens & Southern Bank building.

The other members of the firm are C. B. Mount, Jr., of New York, and Allen W. Clapp, Mr. Carter is treasurer of the Atlanta Society of Certified Public Accountants and is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Clothing Requested By Rescue Workers. With schools to open Monday, nearly 50 children inmates of the American Rescue Workers' Home, at 420 Piedmont avenue, are without adequate clothing to attend classes. It was pointed out Wednesday by Assistant George Payne, head of that institution, in an appeal to Atlantans to help in supplying the charges with cast-off clothing available for their use.

"Our roster of inmates is the largest we have ever had at the opening of the fall school term," Assistant Payne said, "and I hope the real Atlanta spirit will animate our friends in seeing that our children are fully equipped when they turn their eyes toward school next Monday."

Anyone having outgrown or cast off clothing suitable to give the children is requested to telephone Walnut 9765. A truck will be sent to pick up the articles.

Natural Gas Lines Fast Nearing Mobile.

The Southern Natural Gas Corporation announced Wednesday that natural gas has been turned into the Mobile line at Yazoo City, Miss., and is nearing Mobile. The announcement said that with the exception of a slight gap in the line south of Hattiesburg, Miss., the 202-mile transmission system from Yazoo City to Mobile is completed.

TWO-STATE PHONE HOOK-UP PLANNED

Tentative plans for a widespread independent telephone system in Georgia and South Carolina, with a program of expansion which eventually will link many towns and cities of the two states in a hook-up of modern automatic equipment, were announced Wednesday afternoon by W. O. Randall, general manager of the Georgia Continental Telephone Company, a newly formed corporation, and the South Carolina Continental Telephone Company.

Although present plans do not contemplate the new organization entering Atlanta in the utilities competitive field, this city probably will be chosen as regional division headquarters for the two concerns, Mr. Randall said. He is in Atlanta investigating the possibilities for location of such headquarters, having arrived from Sumter, S. C., where he conducted a similar survey.

Already several exchanges in Georgia have been acquired by the new Georgia concern. Mr. Randall announced. Among towns in which the independent organization has taken over equipment and lines or is building inter-connecting lines are Dawson, to Carberry, Shelburn, Parrott and Dawson; and Winder and Monroe. The Georgia public service commission has ordered installation of modern automatic equipment at Monroe, and an expenditure of approximately $100,000 will be required for this work, it was stated. Other towns in Georgia are expected to become a part of the system at an early date.

Part of Gary Group. "The Continental Telephone Company is one of the units in the independent telephone field controlled by Theodore Gary & Company, of Kansas City, Mo., the largest independent telephone operators in the United States and several foreign countries, and the selection of a southern headquarters for this company will mark an important step in the development of its properties in the southeast."

Definite announcement as to the selection of Atlanta as the regional headquarters city will be made within a few days, the executive said.

Clay Pigeon Cache Of Liquor Uncovered.

Observing the reflection of their flashlights on a pile of clay pigeons as they inspected a portion of the Peachtree Gun Club early Wednesday morning, County Policemen J. C. Oliver and Claude Webb investigated and discovered 23 gallon tins of corn liquor, and at the same time arrested C. C. Cash, who gave his address as Chamblee, Ga., who, police reported, was asleep nearby.

Cash was lodged in Fulton county jail, charged with violating the state prohibition law. His bond was fixed at $200.

30,000 Cords of Pine Sought by Paper Firm.

Opportunity for Georgia pine owners to dispose of 30,000 cords annually to a paper manufacturing firm in New England was presented in a letter received Wednesday by the state forest service.

B. M. Fulbrow, state forester, withheld the name of the applicant but said that he desired a contract for 30,000 cords over a period of several years. The matter will be discussed with large timber growers in the state and an effort made to supply the order. It was specified that the timber be taken near a port, preferably Savannah.

Small Phony Fruit Infestation Found.

Survey of Georgia's peach orchards for evidence of the phony fruit disease has been practically completed, an announcement by the state department of entomology Wednesday indicated. William F. Turner, of the United States bureau of plant industries, who heads the corps of federal and state inspectors doing the work, reports that 8,821,790 of the 9,887,205 peach trees in the state have been inspected and that 147,624 trees found to have the disease. A total of 937 orchards have been visited and the work is now complete with the exception of Crawford and Peach counties.

FULTON GIVES TRACT FOR WAR MEMORIAL

Veterans of 82d Division To Dedicate Marker During Reunion.

As its contribution to the forthcoming reunion of the Eighty-Second Division, famous "All-American" fighting unit of the American Expeditionary forces during the World War, Fulton county Wednesday, by action of its commissioners, officially turned over to division members in Atlanta a strip of land on Peachtree Battle avenue 300 feet from Peachtree road, running through Peachtree Heights park to Hayes Manor, to be used for erection of a handsome memorial.

The spot where the memorial marker to the overseas division will be erected, lies near Peachtree road, and during the big reunion September 20, 27 and 28, the ground will be dedicated with elaborate ceremonies, it was understood. The monument itself will probably be in the form of a shaft of granite, and the provisions of the gift are that it shall be "in memory of the dead and wounded members of the Eighty-second Division."

Originally the gift to the county of E. Rivers, the strip of land lies in the middle of Peachtree Battle avenue and is about 100 feet in width. It was decided to the county for park purposes and "to memorialize the valor of the American soldiers in any war in which the United States of America has participated."

The avenue, itself, marks the famous trench lines of the Union and Confederate forces during the Civil War just prior and during the battle of Peachtree Creek. A large part of the area was developed by Mr. Rivers and the thoroughfare now is considered as one of the most beautiful in the entire south. Evidently it is the wish of those interested in the movement to place markers and monuments on historic ground about the city, to make this thoroughfare a boulevard of monuments to soldiers of both sides killed in the Civil War, as well as those who lost their lives in all other American wars.

The property was deeded originally as a memorial to the soldiers of the War Between the States, but the Peachtree-Heights Park company recently consented to its use as a memorial to soldiers of any war, it was said.

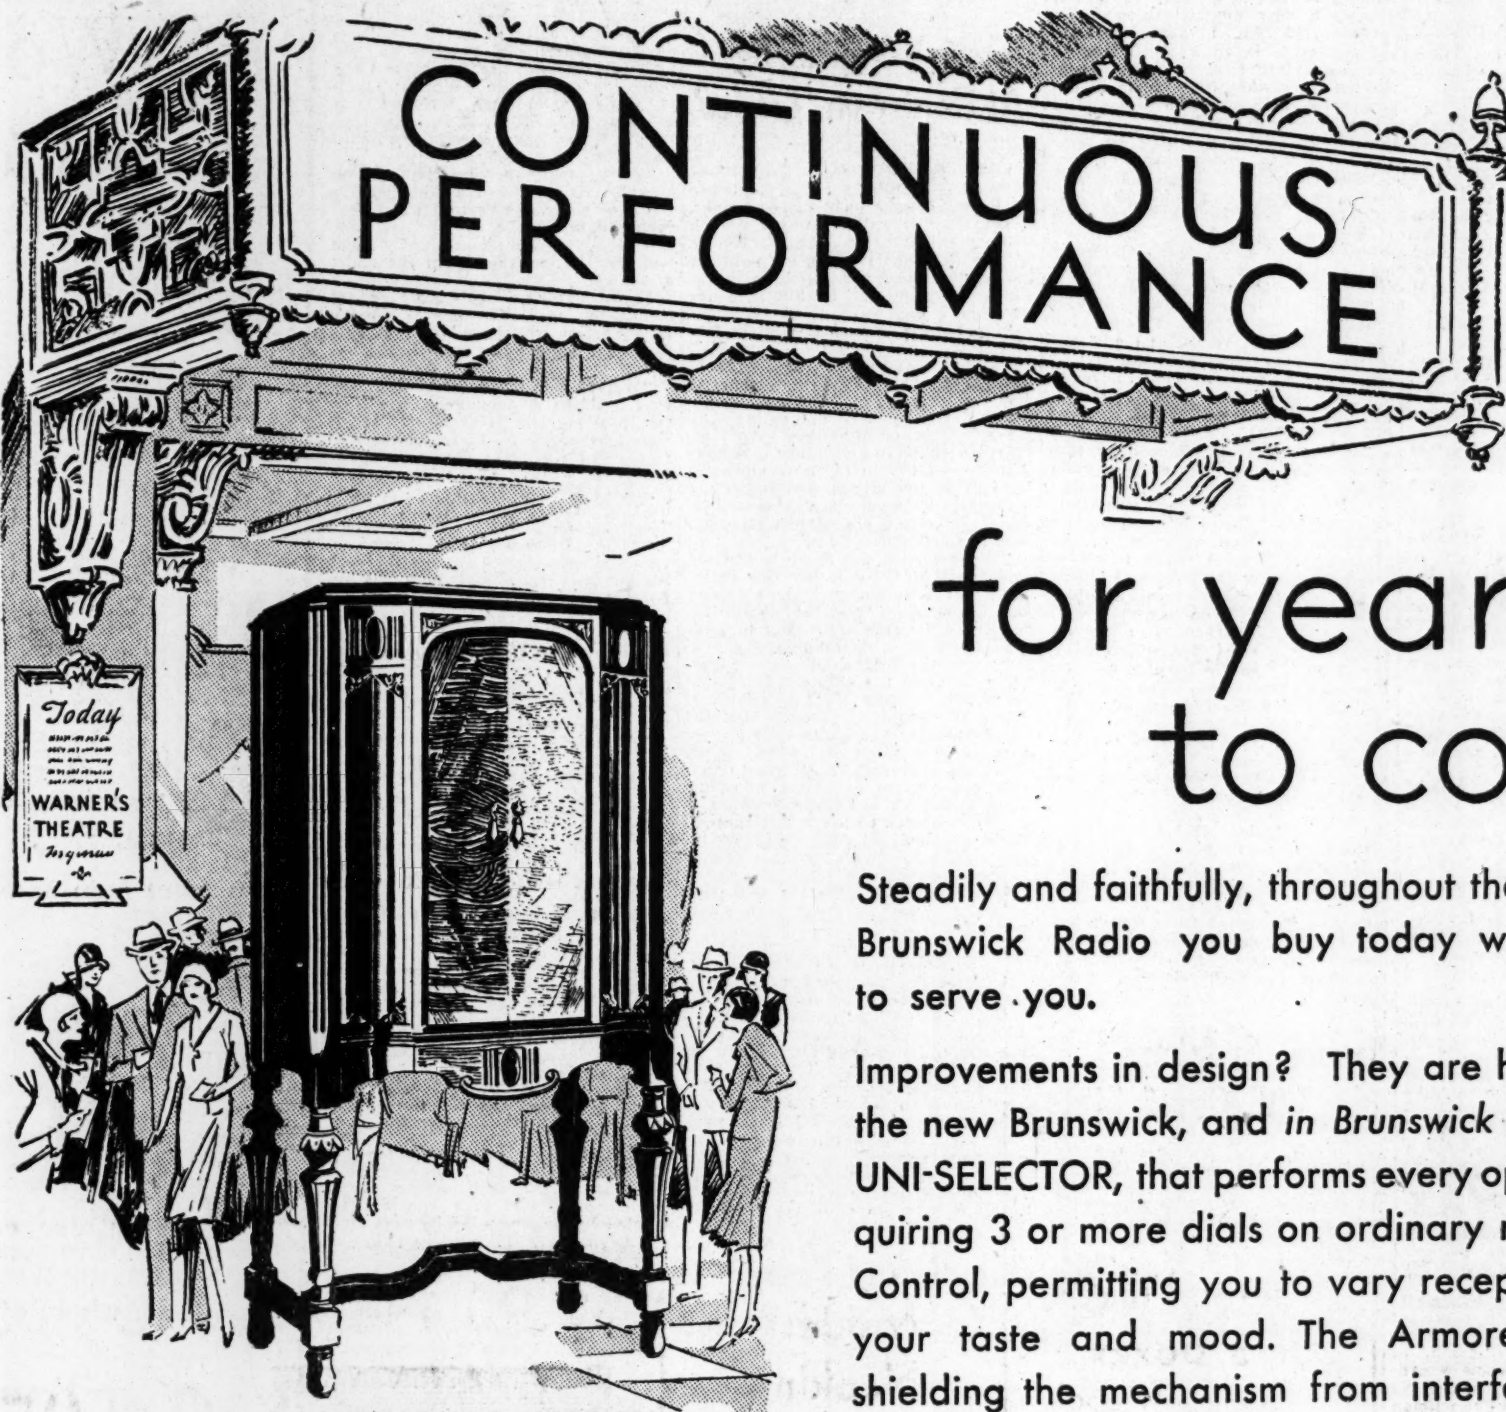

Pupils Must Report At Schools Friday. All children of the Fulton county school system are expected to report to school at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning for classification and organization, it was announced Wednesday at the county school office. All children are required to be present Friday morning or to be represented by their parents so that the enrollment can be ascertained, it was said. Regular classroom work will begin at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning.

$25,000 Damage Suit Filed in Auto Crash. Mrs. J. W. McDonough Wednesday filed suit in Fulton superior court against Arthur L. Brooks for $25,000, alleging that she was injured when an automobile in which she was riding was hit by Brooks' car at Barnett street and St. Charles avenue August 12. The petitioner is represented by George and John L. Westmoreland and F. Joe Turner, Jr.

Revision of Fire Ordinances Proposed. Revision of the fire ordinances of the borough of Atlanta so they will conform with the national and southern underwriters' codes will be the subject of a public hearing scheduled for 3 o'clock this afternoon at the city hall.

A joint committee composed of the board of firemasters, the ordinance committee, Borough Building Inspector C. J. Bowen and Fire Chief John Terrell will hear the arguments. All those interested were urged by Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, chairman of the board of firemasters, to attend.

Loss of Work Blamed For Man's Suicide Try. Despondent, police reported, over the loss of his job, John A. Stone, 41, of 314 Oakland avenue, S. E., fired two bullets from a small pistol into his temple Wednesday afternoon. He was taken to Grady hospital, where it was said his condition was not critical, the bullets lodging

County Forces To Complete Work on Northside Drive

Commission Pledges Aid To Finish Paving of Streets in Other Sections of City Immediately.

Completion of Northside drive at an early date was assured Wednesday when the Fulton county commission pledged itself to transfer convict forces from West Peachtree to Northside drive as soon as the West Peachtree paving work is finished.

HARRIS HAD BEEN GOING DOWN HILL FOR FOUR YEARS

Complications Yield To New Sargon and His Whole System Is Strengthened.

"I don't believe there's another medicine on earth that could have reached my case as Sargon did, and I'll be glad to talk to anyone about this remarkable treatment," recently stated F. B. Harris, 433 N. W. Tenth street, Atlanta. Mr. Harris is an upholder, has lived in Atlanta nearly all his life and has a host of friends. "My health had been failing for four years, and I weighed only one hundred and twenty-four pounds when I commenced taking Sargon. I had continuous headaches, alternating between the dull heavy ache and the acute, throbbing kind. No man was ever troubled more from constipation than I was, and I had terrible griping, caused by the clogged condition of my colon. My back felt like it would break, and my liver was in a bad fix. I took medicines all the time, but never got more than slight temporary relief until I began the Sargon treatment. Three bottles of this wonderful tonic built up my entire system, stopped my headaches and backaches, gave me a splendid appetite, and I've already gained seven pounds."

F. B. HARRIS

"Sargon Pills have no equal for effective, natural results. They regulated my disordered liver, ended my constipation, and my colon gives me no more trouble. In my opinion, Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills form a combination that can't be beat."

The Sargon Man is at Jacobs' Main Store, 48 N. Broad St., Grant Bldg., meeting the public and giving the facts about this remarkable new scientific discovery. He cites cases after cases of Sargon's wonderful powers at work: personal instances of health renewed and happiness restored, right here in this city. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' Drug Stores throughout Atlanta. (Adv.)

Mr. Owen that it will pave immediately the section of Alexander street between Venable and Marietta by capping Belgian blocks which have been laid in the street.

Mr. Bell reported to the commission that he hopes the city in the near future will be able to furnish its share of the cost of completing Williams street. This work will relieve traffic in the downtown section, he said.

Work Progressing Slowly.

Only a few convicts are employed on Northside drive at present and the work is progressing slowly. Mr. Bell said. He pointed out that a large force of men is needed to expedite the work and asked that the forces now at work on West Peachtree be moved to Northside drive as soon as the present job is finished.

A. A. Clarke, Jr., superintendent of public works, reported that the county forces have set the headers on Northside drive for a considerable distance and that the county will be ready to proceed with the paving when West Peachtree is completed. On the motion of Commissioner Paul S. Ehrighe it was ordered that the convicts be moved from West Peachtree to Northside drive immediately after completion of the West Peachtree work and that completion of the new project be rushed.

Donaldson Before Commission.

Mr. Bell and Mr. Owen were accompanied by Clarke Donaldson, city chief of construction, on their visit to the commission. Mr. Donaldson told the commission that the county took up the paving on Alexander street to grade the street, and put the Belgian blocks back without capping them with asphalt. The property owners are paying money under the baby bond plan for a pavement that they really do not have, Mr. Donaldson said. The commission agreed promptly to remedy the matter and cap the blocks with asphalt.

In speaking of the Northside drive project, Mr. Bell declared it is one of the greatest civic improvements the county could undertake. The drive leads from the heart of Atlanta through a thickly populated section, opening up a new avenue to the Bob Jones golf course and Peachtree Memorial park, and serving an important section of Fulton county, he said.

Mr. Bell said that the drive, when completed, will be an important factor in relieving traffic congestion, and will be one of the most important traffic arteries in the county. He said that plans for the drive call for a highway which will be a credit to any community, and that it is imperative that the work be completed as soon as possible.

McCutcheon Silent On Campaign Plans

Howard C. McCutcheon, former councilman from the second ward, resigned, who was nominated to succeed himself in the democratic primary, prior to his indictment in the municipal graft probe, Wednesday had not definitely decided whether he will contend for the post to which he was nominated.

He declared he has the matter under advisement, but has not reached a decision. In the event he does run, there will be at least a three-cornered contest for the position, with C. H. Sims, selected by council to fill the post which McCutcheon vacated subsequent to his indictment, and Harry Morris, attorney, seeking to fill the vacancy.

J. K. Jackson, Jr., attorney, Wednesday filed notice with Mayor I. N. Ragsdale that he will become a candidate in the December 2 general election, to succeed former Councilman J. William Rountree, resigned.

Thomas C. McLaurin was elected at the council session Monday to fill the vacant post until the general election.

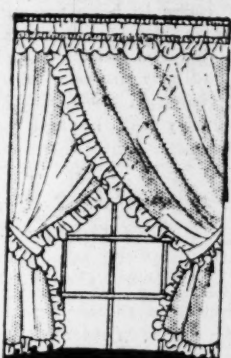

"I have not yet decided just what I will do," McCutcheon said Wednesday. "I have the matter under advisement, and will arrive at a definite conclusion within the next few days."

Freeman's School Will Open Monday

The eighteenth consecutive term of the Eliza M. Freeman School for Colored will open next Monday with the Rev. A. U. Freeman, founder, as principal teacher. It was announced Wednesday. The coming term will be the second in which Bible teaching will be a part of the school studies, which are of the elementary class. The school is located at 312 Tremholm street.

Neighbors were attracted to the scene when they heard Mrs. Duke and her son run screaming from the home. A moment later they heard a shot and investigated to find Duke, inside the house, shot through the head. Mrs. Duke said she was awakened by a blow over the head and saw her husband standing over her. Before she could get out of bed, she said her husband fired at her.

The boy, sleeping in an adjoining room, said he, too, was awakened by a blow and then shot.

Mrs. Duke was shot through the head in addition to being beaten over the head with a blunt instrument. The boy was shot through the mouth.

Cities Service and Ford, Ltd., were leaders, but were well taken

American & Foreign Power warrent American and Canadian common about a point. Electric Power Light warrants lost 4 points in sales.

Gold and natural gas issues were narrow, and were inclined to fall. Most of the investment shares were well supported, but Prince & Whitley and man Sachs moved up a little by active buying.

Chilean Nitrate was strong, breaking about 3 points. Copper, breaking nearly 5 points, tumbled nearly 5 points. Gold dropped nearly 10 points to the minimum. Glen Alden was up 10 points, perhaps on the strength of reports of a substantial increase in coal production. Most of the other issues were largely un-and slightly lower, reflecting heavy offerings and some slackening in demand with improved pastures and early crops in many sections. Hides were generally for actual immediate needs. A limited inquiry for future deliveries was reported at the markets but at or very near prices which was not attractive to the mills. Bran was quoted September 2 at Kansas City at $22.00; at St. Louis $21.00; at Memphis $20.00; at Atlanta $33.00, and at Memphis $32.00.

Corn prices advanced one-half to 1 cent at the principal markets during the week influenced by a moderate increase in the estimated size of the new crop together with a continued high demand. Supplies of old corn are diminishing but advancing grain prices have brought out larger offerings at a number of markets. No. 2 yellow corn was quoted September 2 at Kansas City at 96 1/2-cent and in bulk at Atlanta at $1.25 per bushel. No. 1 white corn was quoted at the latter place in bulk at $1.27 per bushel. Oats prices declined slightly during the week. No. 3 white oats was quoted September at Chicago at 39 1/2¢, at 41¢, at Kansas City 39 1/2-40¢, and at No. 2 white oats in bulk at Atlanta at 54 1/2¢.

Hay markets were generally to slightly stronger during the week. Offerings continued low most markets and demand good particularly for the better grades. Increase in receipts was reported Atlanta but offerings were still as light and barely equal to demand. Top grades of alfalfa were in unusually good demand, and U. S. alfalfa was quoted September 2 market at $36.00 per ton. U. S. 1 timothy at $30.00; U. S. No. 2 at $28.00-29.00, and U. S. Johnson at $22.00 per ton.

Miss Allen and Mr. Armstrong Wed at Lovely Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Angel Allen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Allen, and William Buckingham Armstrong was solemnized yesterday at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Pleasant Allen, on East Fifteenth street. The impressive service was performed by Rev. Justin P. Howe, of Brunswick, and preceding the rites Enrico Leide and his orchestra rendered an exquisite musical program and appropriate selections were rendered during the ceremony.

Stately palms and graceful suilax decorated the interior of the handsome home, and in the living room, where the ceremony was performed, an improvised altar had as the effective background an arrangement of palms and ferns. Cathedral candle-labra held white tapers, and flanked either side of the altar and the bride and groom stood under a canopy of pastel flowers, adorned with myriads of electric lights.

The bride's only attendants were her two sisters, Mrs. Vincentia Allen Shipp and Mrs. Grady Black. Mrs. Shipp wore a model of yellow chiffon made with long sleeves, the square neck being appliqued with flowers of the same shade. Her hair, close-fitting, was of yellow velvet and her slippers were of yellow satin. She carried a shower bouquet of sweet-heart roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Black wore a gown of ciel blue georgette, fashioned along Grecian lines, finished with a belt of rhinestones. She wore a close-fitting blue velvet hat, and her slippers were of blue velvet. She carried a shower bouquet of sweet-heart roses and valley lilies.

Beautiful Bride.
The radiantly beautiful bride entered with her father, Mr. Allen, who gave her in marriage. Her blonde loveliness was enhanced by her bridal robe of antique ivory satin made on princess lines with long sleeves. A court train of satin was fastened to the shoulders, its length being covered with a veil of real lace made cap shape and fastened in the back with orange blossoms. Her slippers were of white satin, and she carried a bouquet of white Calla lilies.

Cyrus Strickler, Jr., acted as best man for Mr. Armstrong. Following the ceremony an informal reception was held with the immediate families and a few close friends being present. The table in the dining room had for the centerpiece a wedding cake, with a canopy overhead composed of pastel shaded flowers.

Mrs. Allen, mother of the bride, wore black velvet with gold and white yoke and a shoulder bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Her hat was a model of black velvet.

Mrs. Russell Richards, mother of the groom, wore cloth of gold gown with hat to match. Her flowers were a corsage of roses and valley lilies.

Wedding Journey.
Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will go to Mexico City for a month's honeymoon and upon their return will be at home after October 1 on Peachtree circle.

The bride traveled in a brown and tan tweed ensemble, and her brown felt hat was a full model, close-fitting, and very becoming. She wore brown suede shoes and the accessories were in brown.

Mrs. Armstrong is one of the loveliest and most charming members of the social contingent. She attended Oglethorpe University, afterwards taking special courses at Emory University.

Mr. Armstrong graduated from the University of Georgia and is attending the medical school at Emory University. He is the son of Mrs. Russell Richards and the late Dr. William Armstrong.

SHERLOCK HOLMES—"Silver Blaze"

Colonel Ross was showing signs of impatience at my companion's quiet and systematic method of work, as Holmes took the boots from the bag and compared them with the marks on the ground.

"I should like to take a little walk over the moor before dark," Holmes said, "so I may know my ground tomorrow. And I think I shall put this horseshoe in my pocket for good luck."

Colonel Ross Is Impatient.

Colonel Ross looked at his watch irritably, ignoring Holmes. "I wish you would come back with me, Inspector," he said. "I should like your advice as to whether we do not owe it to the public to remove the name of Silver Blaze from the entries for this cup."

By SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

Holmes seized the Colonel's arm. "Certainly not," he cried with decision. "I should let the name stand." The Colonel bowed. "I am very glad to have had your opinion, sir," he returned coldly.

Cookies, Groceries Loot of Burglars

A copious quantity of home-baked cookies seem to have been the cardinal objective of burglars who raided a duplex residence at 313 Georgia avenue late Wednesday afternoon, the police reported. Mrs. B. S. Bailey and Mrs. L. E. Waldrip, occupants of the house, told Emergency Patrolmen E. Norwood and M. O. Evans that a liberal supply of freshly-baked cakes and a quantity of groceries were taken by thieves, who ransacked several rooms during their absence.

RICH'S

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

Heretofore she had represented everything that was haughty, elusive and intractable, but she had finally surrendered and patrons of the Paradise Casino stared curiously at the imperious young man beside her, giving him credit for unusual qualities of mind or mesmeric powers of an uncommon degree.

"Come along, darling. I'm tired," Alanna said suddenly.

Sam nodded. "I was only playing to amuse you," he told her.

As they left their places she inquired: "How much winner are you?"

"Oh, quite a lot, I believe."

Sam shrugged carelessly. "What's the difference? I already have more money than I need."

"Isn't there any kick in beating the game? Haven't you any enthusiasm whatever?"

He inclined his head and smiled. "I have many. Winning and losing a few dollars isn't one of them."

"I don't like a miser when I pick up a bet and I'm losing when I lose. I can't bear to lose at anything."

"If I felt that way I wouldn't gamble. There are things I enjoy infinitely more than playing. I love beautiful things—silk, ivory, jewels, tapestries, paintings, etc."

"Why don't you like me? I'm beautiful," Alanna asked this question abruptly and she fixed her dark eyes upon her companion's face with disconcerting intensity. She did not heed what he said, it was only a meaningless pleasantry anyhow, but she noted a certain change in his voice and a slow alteration in his color which startled her.

They had passed out of the Grande Salon and were in the soft carpeted promenade, the Peacock Alley of Paradise, with its mellow paintings, its tapestries, its palms and cut flowers.

Ahead of them was the ornate cafe, a famous rendezvous for amusement seekers; from it issued the music of the casino orchestra, one of the finest in Europe. Many couples were dancing, it was a brilliant scene.

Together they entered the cafe; with an ostentatious flourish they were shown to a table adjoining the dance floor and a restaurant.

Sam placed his order, smiling queerly the while.

Alanna drew a deep breath. "I'd give something for your luck," she said.

Sam spoke almost harshly. "Why? Is it good luck to win the things you can't keep, and to never attain what you really want?"

"Meaning what? What do you want that you can't attain? Who is she?"

He shrugged. After a moment she inquired:

"By the way, have you got any money? Not that I care, but father was asking me. It's the first question a modern parent puts when his daughter shows interest in a fellow."

If she answers in the affirmative, anxiety lessens, the conversation lags. Dad says I'm looking hazy and beginning to chuck like a hen."

"I have nothing I can call my own," Sam declared.

"Well, so much for that. I've got plenty. Dad has more money than a bank." Dimples popped suddenly into Alanna's olive cheeks. "Now then, why is it you hate me? I'm reasonably good-looking."

"Unreasonably! Terribly! Devastatingly!" Sam agreed.

"I'm full of that indefinable, magnetic something—"

"You are, indeed, and I adore you."

"Then, for Heaven's sake, seize me and—dance me!" Sam said, Alanna rose, she swayed forward into his arms and they moved away. This was intoxication.

Their table was ready when they returned to it. For a while they sat in silence then Sam began: "Did you notice those people who spoke to me?"

"The woman looks Spanish."

"The one with the big comb? Who are they?"

"Friends of Mr. Bathurst's. The man is an oil operator from Oklahoma, she's his wife, and Bathurst told me how they met. I'd like to tell you."

"Why?"

"It's an interesting story, to me at least. She isn't Spanish at all. She's an Osage girl."

"An Osage girl?"

"An Osage Indian girl, from his own state. She had known him as a child. The Osages are rich, she had been educated at an eastern college. The upshot of it was—a real love match. I considered it quite extraordinary."

"In what way?" Alanna queried.

"Because many people have such strong racial prejudice."

"Bosh!"

"Have you none? Would you marry an—Indian, a man of another race?"

"I was engaged to one—to an East Indian. It was just fun, of course, but he was a dandy fellow and he wasn't very dark. I couldn't stand a dark one. You have the strangest ideas, Sam. I couldn't help marrying a man I cared for. I'm thoroughly spoiled, thank Heaven! There aren't any taboos among people of my class. I'd marry him or—nobody else would."

They danced again when the music resumed and each felt some change in the other. A new vitality, some electric quality had entered into Sam and Alanna thrilled to it; her body relaxed, came closer to his, her breath beat hotly upon his cheek. As if by mutual consent they ceased dancing at the end of the cafe nearest the open air and passed out upon the portico that overlooked the sea. Together they descended the wide marble steps. Beyond them and running parallel with the cliffs is the handsome avenue of the cypresses, equally well advertised on souvenir postcards. This avenue of stately trees was doubtless laid out as a lovers' lane in the beginning for it affords an enchanting view of the harbor, especially on a moonlight night, and time has made it ever more beautiful and more popular among those sentimentally inclined. Suicides have happened there, too.

Here she and Sam found themselves without knowing which one had led the way. As a matter of fact, neither had led, their feet had shown them the path, but when they had passed out of the light and into the gloom, they paused and faced each other as if at some unspoken signal. Each saw the other dimly and yet with a revealing distinctness.

He had her in his arms, he was crushing her to him and bruising her lips with his; a ruthless passion overpowered him and the girl responded recklessly, unreservedly; her embrace was as close as his. It was capitulation for both, and conquest, too; a sudden bursting of all constraints, an explosive shattering of inhibitions, and the ecstasy of its was keener than a knife thrust. Intoxication, madness, abandon, bliss, triumph—words as weak symbols for emotions strong enough to paralyze the very processes of thought.

Voices sounded, people passed close by, but neither Sam nor Alanna noticed them. They were entranced; they sat a while on a convenient bench, they rose and moved on aimlessly through the shadows, absorbed in each other. Time passed, it grew dark in the gardens behind them and even darker here, and they realized that the lights had been turned off, but the stars remained. The orchestra in the cafe had stopped long ago. A thousand times I've dreamed about holding you like this," Sam murmured. "I seem to experience feelings I've always known."

He was profoundly interested in this phenomenon. "I've thought about you constantly, every night I've fallen asleep haunted by your voice. It was like the music of some strident instrument sighing in the moonlight. I've breathed the fragrance of your hair and it was like sweet-scented honey-suckle."

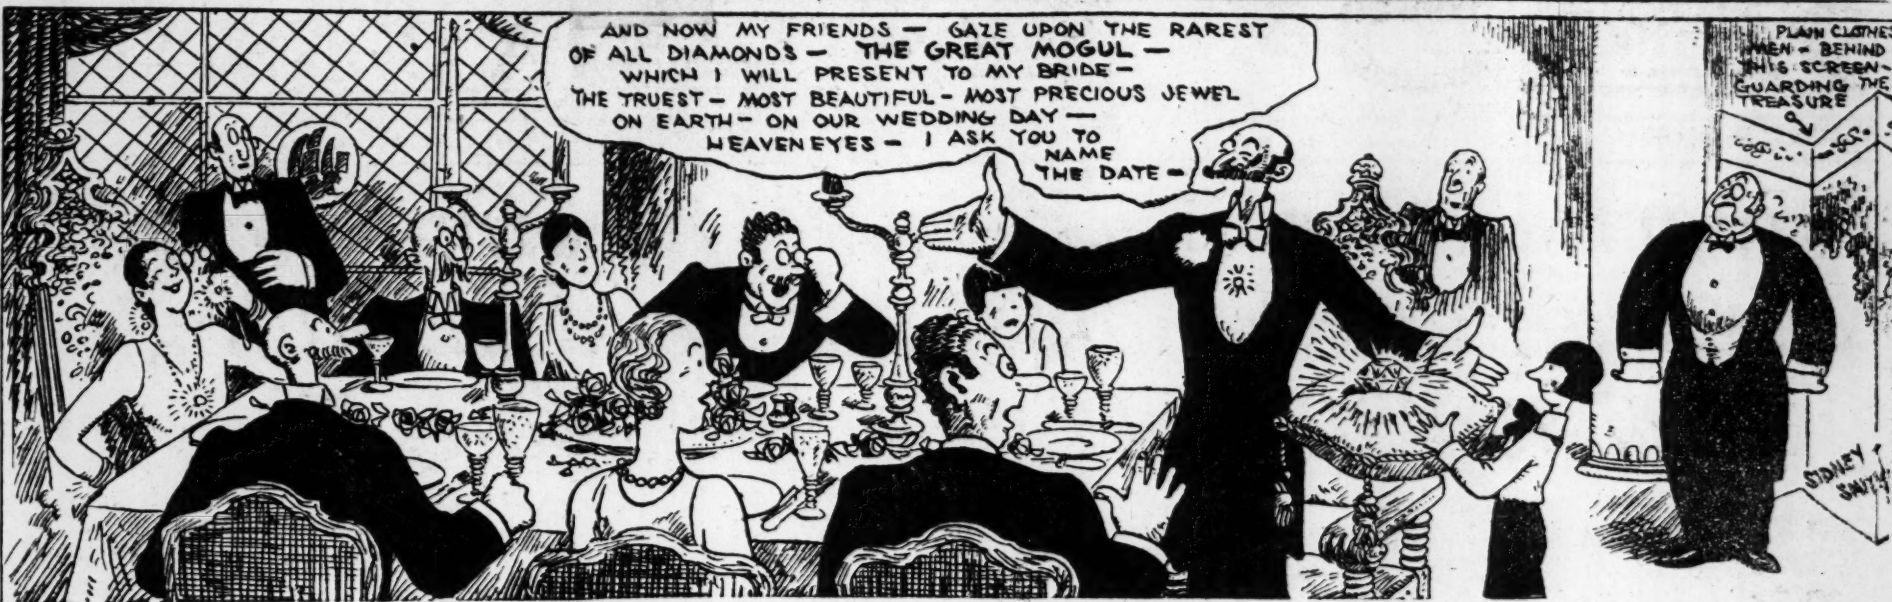

"That's father's soap," Alanna told him. "The odor lasts."

"He asked you if I had money and I told you—"

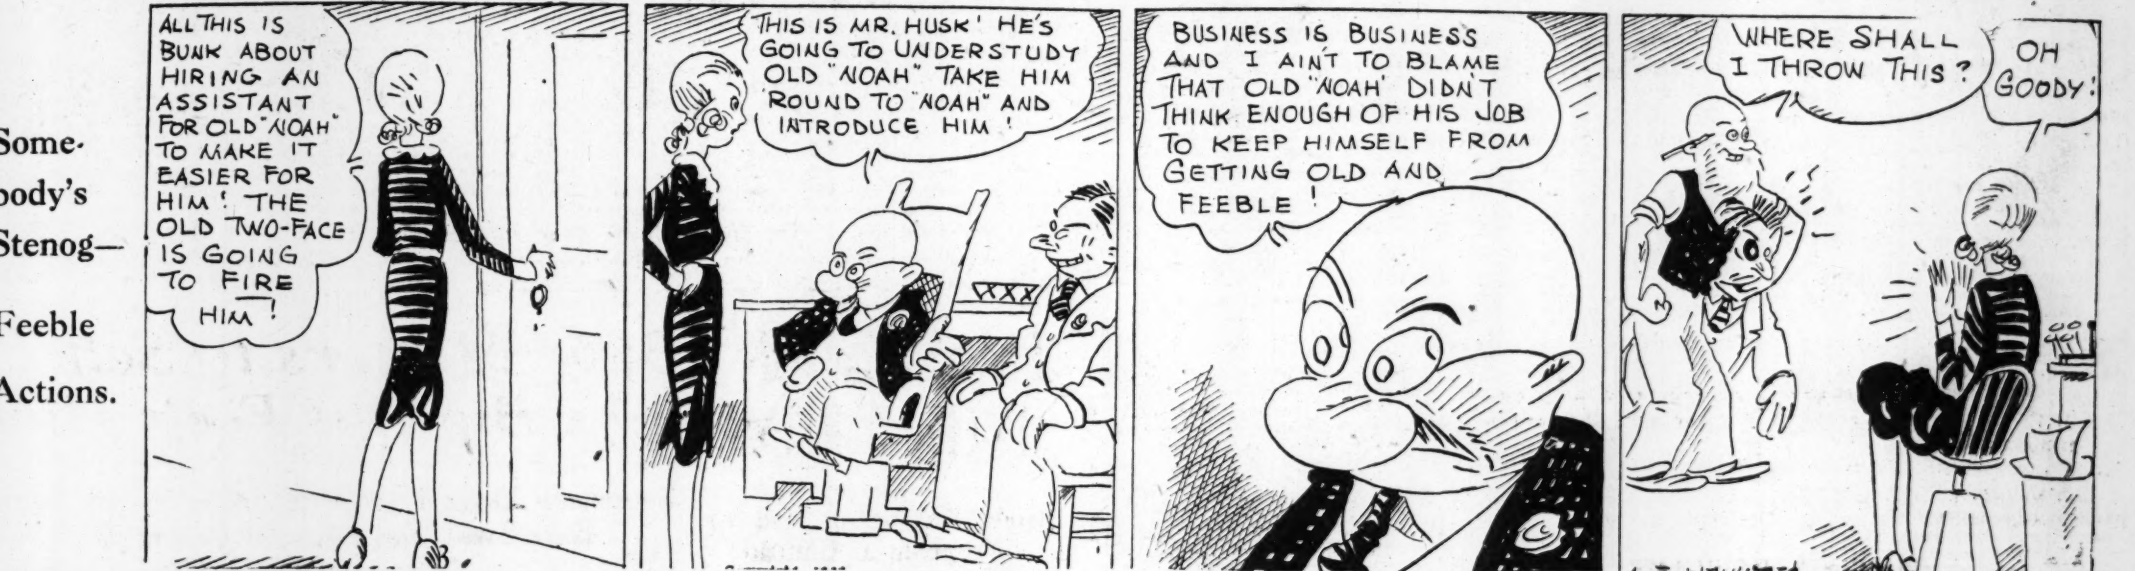

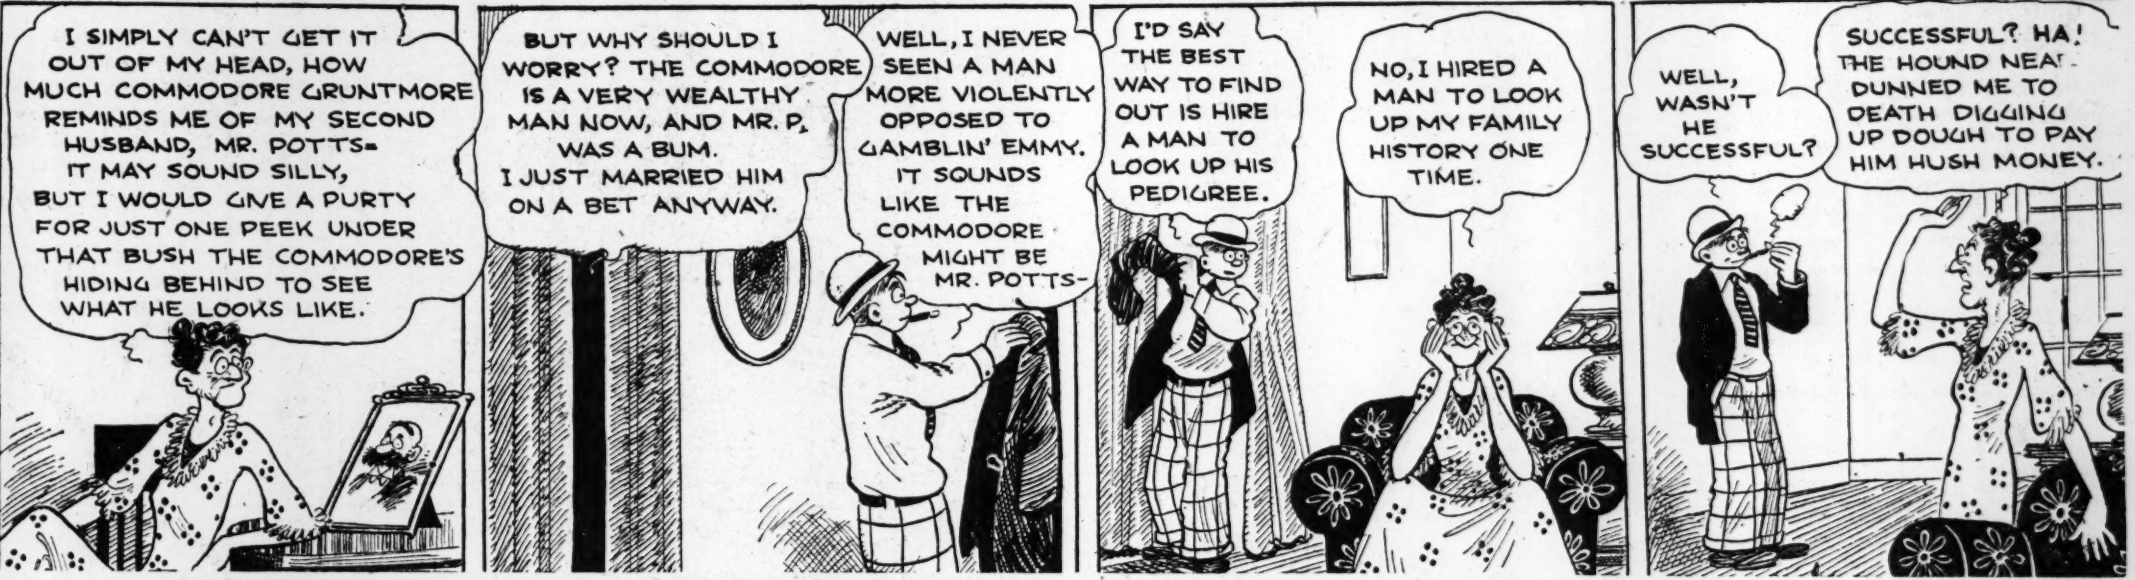

"Continued Tomorrow."

John McGraw Signs Five-Year Contract With New York Giants

VETERAN PILOT SPIKES RUMORS OF HIS QUITTING

Absent From Giants Bench Because of Doctor's Orders.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—John McGraw, for 25 years manager of the New York Giants, today signed a contract to manage the National league club for the next five years.

In making the announcement of McGraw's signing, another long term contract, Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, said it had been the club's plan to have the formal signing at the expiration of the present contract but rumors of McGraw's leaving the Giants and the National league prompted immediate action. Manager McGraw's present contract expires at the close of this year.

Manager McGraw himself handed a statement from President Stoneham to newspaper men at the downtown offices of the Giants this afternoon.

"Mr. Stoneham and I reached an agreement six months ago," he said, "and another contract would have been signed about the beginning of the new year but with these foolish stories going around that I would manage another club, or even leave the National league for the American league, caused us to conclude the business now."

PERSISTENT RUMORS.

Rumors have persisted, since the Giants went on their last western trip without the manager, that the man who has been in charge of the Giants since 1902 and is a stockholder and vice president of the club, would not retain his place.

It was explained today that ill health has kept the manager from the bench. McGraw's health is reported much improved but his physician warned him that he could not hope to regain his health if he insisted on leaving the heat and humidity of the bench.

Manager McGraw is hopeful that his 1930 team will win his 11th championship for him.

"No, the race is not over yet by a long shot," he said. "We certainly have a chance."

WILL TAKE SEAT.

"Will you be able to take a seat on the bench if the Giants get in the world series?" he was asked.

"Oh yes," was the reply, accompanied by the faintest McGraw smile. "I am sure, in that event, the doctor would permit."

The formal statement from President Stoneham read:

"John J. McGraw today signed a contract with the New York Giants for five years, commencing at the expiration of his present contract which does not terminate until the end of this year."

"It had not been the intention to make a new contract until the expiration of the present contract, but in view of the persistent rumors to the effect that Mr. McGraw intends

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

THE JOY OF WORK.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

In idleness there is no joy. For bird or beast, or fish or boy. —Old Mother Nature.

Impy, the black chipmunk, thought that when he got his bedroom dug and the passageway leading to his front door completed he would stop work. But no sooner did he get these things done than he began to think about a comfortable bed.

"I must have a soft bed right away," said Impy, and forthwith started to look for some soft material to make his bed out of. He took down through the front door and along the long passage some leaves—some dead leaves. Then he found some soft dead grass that was just what he wanted. He took that down inside. He had to make many trips. Yes, indeed, he had to make many trips, and there were times when his legs ached. When he had enough for a bed he was quite satisfied to curl up for a good long nap. Those little legs of his had taken him a long distance in collecting all that material.

"Now," said Impy, "I can spend my time eating and playing. I have a bedroom and a nice soft bed. What more could I ask? I've worked hard and now I will just have a good time." But Impy had experienced the joy of work. For one whole day he played around and discovered that there was no pleasure in having nothing to do. Then once more he began to dig another storeroom. As before, he opened the back door in order to throw the sand out. But when this storeroom was half done Impy once more closed the back door and then he began filling in the passage that led to that back door. He pushed it in tight. You see, he no longer had any use for that passage; so there was no sense in pushing that sand any farther than he had to. Besides, if he filled that passage with sand he would have no way of digging in from the outside.

The next story: "Impy Meets Some One." (Copyright, 1930, for The Constitution.)

EXPLOSION WRECKS ARKANSAS BRIDGE

GARLAND CITY, Ark., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Four expertly timed blasts, which early today sent the 303-foot steel center span of the new Garland City state highway bridge tumbling into the Red river, at an estimated loss of $250,000, tonight were believed the work of racketeering structural steel workers.

Although state and county investigators sent to the scene of the dynamite had little real evidence upon which to base a finding, they eventually returned to a theory of sabotage by disgruntled union labor.

The Kansas City Bridge Company, contractors, employed open shop men on steel construction, but their officials refused to commit themselves on the labor angle nor to say they had experienced no labor troubles previously.

A reward will be offered by Governor Parnell for apprehension of responsible persons and it was considered likely that the bridge company would be likewise.

The nearly completed half-million-dollar structure, one of the largest projects to be undertaken by the state, was seriously damaged by the blasts, which occurred about 3 a. m. today.

The massive center span was hurled from its foundations into 25 feet of water, a twisted wreck of steel and concrete. Continging spans were twisted and warped at the point of connection, although the piers, considered one of the most expensive items, were only slightly damaged.

Investigators, led by Sheriff Fleet Metcalf, of Miller county, and James A. Proctor, Little Rock, have been working since late last night to get into the bridge. They found evidence leading to the belief that the explosives had been stolen from a nearby highway construction camp.

Three cases of dynamite were reported missing from the camp on a highway job in Lafayette county, which is on the highway leading to the bridge proper. The dynamite was nitroglycerine was the explosive agent employed was strengthened by the fact that dynamite, boiled down, constitutes nitroglycerine.

The only actual clues found by the officers were given by two negroes employed by the bridge company.

They told officers that white men warned them at midnight last night to keep away from the Miller county end of the bridge "unless you want to get into trouble." They said the negroes said they slept on the Lafayette county side and fled when awakened by the blasts.

J. E. Hayes, county engineer superintendent, witnessed the blasts, but saw no one on the bridge.

HIGH COURT JUSTICE OF NEW YORK MISSING

SAVANNAH, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The New York World says Supreme Court Justice Joseph P. McKenna has been missing for more than three weeks. He was last seen August 6 and although an exhaustive search has been made, no trace of him has been found. During that day he virtually depleted his two bank accounts, totaling about $25,000, and is believed to have had $15,000 more in cash on a person.

Early that evening he purchased a single theater ticket from a Broadway broker and started down Broadway. From that point on all efforts to pick up his trail have failed.

Judge McKenna is 41 years old, and was appointed to the bench by Governor Roosevelt last May 1 to fill the unexpired year of former Justice Joseph M. Prosser, who resigned.

The World says no allegations have been made against the justice in the many communications received by the federal or state investigators of office buying and corruption among the city's judiciary. Mrs. McKenna is reported as protesting. In the 14 years of their married life the justice was said to have telephoned his wife at least once each day.
